

'What Have I Done to Deserve This?'

By MICHAEL GOLDSMITH
LEOPOLDVILLE (AP)—A Congolese survivor of Monday's battle at the Ghana Embassy said today his legs were shattered by repeated bursts of UN machine-gun fire while he lay on the ground holding his dying commander.

The commander, Lt. Col. Joseph Kokolo, was killed while demanding to speak to Ghana charge d'affaires Nathaniel Welbeck, who left the Congo after the battle, UN Tunisian troops and riot police from Ghana guarded the embassy.

Congolese immigration officer Henri Ngambo and an armed soldier, Pte. Andre Lantrola, accompanied Kokolo on his ill-fated attempt to enter the residence. About 300 Congolese troops, supported by armored cars and heavy machine-guns, were waiting in the darkness for Kokolo and his escort to return.

"As we came up to the door we were met by a Tunisian lieutenant," Ngambo told reporters from his hospital bed.

"He said the colonel could come in as he was unarmed, but Lantrola and I would have to wait outside. Kokolo insisted on bringing in his escort, and there was an argument.

"Suddenly I heard the lieutenant scream out an order three times. A volley of machine-gun fire hit the colonel across the chest and he fell moaning to the ground.

"I lay down and put his head on my arm. Blood was pouring from his mouth. I heard him say: 'I am dying. Call our soldiers. Tell them they killed me. Tell them to attack.' He was groaning and I knew he would soon be dead.

"Then I saw a Ghanaian policeman aiming at us from the door. I heard machine-gun fire and felt a terrible pain in my legs. I felt another volley strike the colonel's body lying on top of me. My legs were hit by four more bursts. Then they stopped firing. They must have thought we were both dead."

"Lantrola was a little way behind us. Both his arms were hit while his rifle was still slung over his shoulder. He never had a chance to fire back.

"Then everybody started shooting from both sides. Lantrola and I crawled through the darkness into a kind of cellar where we hid for the rest of the night.

"When dawn broke, some

Ghanaians found us and started shooting at the wall just above our heads. I offered them all the money I had if they would not kill me. I asked for some water and one of them brought me some, but the other ordered him not to give it to me.

"Then an ambulance came and took us away."

The official Tunisian account of the shooting claimed that Ngambo shouted the first order to fire, "resulting in several volleys from the Congolese side" which wounded two Tunisian officers. Only then did the UN Tunisian and Ghanaian troops return the fire, the official report said.

Ngambo spoke with difficulty. He is suffering from shock and had been given pain-killing drugs.

He said doctors extracted 24 bullets from his legs.

"I'll never be able to use my legs again," he said with tears in his eyes. "What have I done to deserve this?"

Germany: Exclusive Interview

(Bruce Hutchison, Editor of the Times, returned last weekend from a six-week fact-finding visit to the United Kingdom and Europe. Today he begins a series of articles on the effect that trade and economic policies now in the making there will have on Canada.)

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

In a remarkably candid statement to this newspaper at Bonn, Dr. Ludwig Erhard, vice-chancellor and minister for economic affairs of the German Federal Republic, announced a series of high policies vitally affecting the whole clouded future of Canada. (Full text on Page 4).

The economic genius who made a ruined West Germany the most prosperous nation of the free world declared first, that the principles of the thriving European Common Market should be extended, by stages to include Canada and the United States in a broad Atlantic trading community.

Second, bluntly entering the debate which has strained relations between the British and Canadian governments, Dr. Erhard argued that Britain's entry into the Common Market of Europe was an "absolute necessity," though Canada officially regards it with grave alarm. The union of Britain and the Common Market, Dr. Erhard said, should be the stepping stone toward a wider economic association embracing North America.

Third, to encourage Britain's membership in the Common Market, Dr. Erhard offered on Germany's part a completely new deal which should go a long way toward removing Canada's fears, as recently expressed by Finance Minister Donald Fleming.

Germany, Dr. Erhard said, would not expect Britain to abandon the Imperial Preference system if it joined the

At Odds Over Policy With France

This announcement removed, so far as Germany is concerned, one of the chief objections to Britain's membership in the Common Market. But of course Dr. Erhard can speak for Germany alone and not for France. Up to now the government of General de Gaulle, obsessed by his vision of French power, has insisted that if Britain joins the Common Market it must surrender the entire Preference system and accept the common, relatively high external tariff of the European partners. The schism of policy between Germany and France on this issue—and there are other disputes as well—is clear in Dr. Erhard's statement.

Fourth, Dr. Erhard's government is itself embarrassed by Germany's huge surpluses in foreign trade and its excessive accumulation of gold reserves that have dangerously distorted the Free World economy.

To cure this particular aspect of a general distortion Dr. Erhard promised that Germany would soon begin a large export of capital to under-developed countries overseas. (Such promises have been made vaguely by the German government in the past, but, as a highly-placed British statesman remarked to this reporter in London, "nothing ever happens.")

The actual results of Dr. Erhard's specific pledge will be anxiously awaited throughout the world.

Fifth, Dr. Erhard discounted as impractical the concept of a new political confederation in Europe growing out of the Common Market. He predicted,

GREY CUP FEVER MOUNTS AT VANCOUVER

Soggy Field, Cloudy Skies Promised for Grid Battle

VANCOUVER (CP)—Heavy rain continued to hamper Ottawa Rough Riders today as they prepared for Saturday's Grey Cup Football final against Edmonton Eskimos.

Coach Frank Clair and the Rough Riders arrived here Tuesday but have been unable to hold an outdoors practice of any length due to an almost steady rain.

It was raining again today and it was expected the Rough Riders would be forced to practice at the University of British Columbia's memorial Gymnasium.

The rain was presenting a problem to Empire Stadium manager Dave Dauphinee.

"We expected the field to be soft but well-conditioned. However, with all this rain it's hard to say how the field will be Saturday," said a worried Dauphinee.

A canvas tarpaulin has been protecting the stadium turf since Tuesday and, if the rain persists, will not be removed until game time at 1:30 Saturday.

Meanwhile, excitement continued to mount in the city as scores of out-of-town fans arrived by plane and train.

Major portion of the visitors will arrive here Friday with 13 extra plane flights and six extra trains reaching Vancouver.

The game interest was noticeable at 6 a.m. today when fans started lining up for 1,300 Grey Cup tickets.

A long-range weather forecast for Saturday predicts skies will be overcast and temperatures in the high forties.

WIRE BRIEFS

Plane Still Missing

MANILA (UPI)—A massive air-sea search failed today to find any trace of a Philippines airliner missing since Wednesday with 33 persons aboard and there were fears it had been hijacked by one of its passengers.

Argo Player Arrested

TORONTO (CP)—Don Caraway, 225-pound linebacker with Toronto Argonauts of the Big Four football league, was arrested today after the early morning beating of a 62-year-old parking lot attendant.

One Dead In Fire

MONTREAL (CP)—One man was killed and at least five were injured today by a spray of flame at the refinery of Canadian Petrofina Co. Ltd. in Pointe-aux-Trembles, an east-end suburb.

Independence Debate

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—The General Assembly will begin debate Friday on a Soviet-proposed declaration of immediate independence of colonial countries and peoples. It was announced today.

Congolese Block UN Vehicles

LEOPOLDVILLE (CP)—Angry Congolese troops erected roadblocks and seized between 50 and 60 United Nations vehicles today as tension in this Congo capital mounted toward the explosion point.

All UN forces were on the alert. Canadian signalmen and other UN troops were under orders to shoot to kill if attacked by unruly Congolese. UN soldiers dug in around the residences of senior UN officials.

They feared reprisals for Monday night's battle in which several Congolese soldiers were killed, including Lt. Col. Joseph Kokolo.

The Congolese roamed the streets and set up roadblocks in a residential area where many UN personnel have houses. UN staff were advised to spend the night in the city.

MALAYS ON GUARD

The 150 Canadians stationed here were ordered to remain in their school quarters. They doubled the guard around the school and were reinforced by a platoon of tough Malaysian jungle fighters.

The school buildings were described by Col. Paul Smith of Edmonton and Vancouver, the signal unit commander, as "easy to defend and difficult to take."

Orders to shoot to kill are to take effect only if Congolese soldiers attack the school and only when given by an officer.

Col. Smith said there is a possibility the defence setup may have to be maintained for a week. A company of Tunisians may later be brought in to defend the perimeter of the school grounds.

Canadians are allowed to leave the school only for shift changes at the UN headquarters message centre, located a half mile away.

Canadians continue to wear side arms at all times, with officers and NCOs equipped with automatic pistols and other ranks with sub-machine guns. From the time they arrived here in August until

PM Insists On Control Of A-Arms

'No Decision While Talks On'

(Times News Services)

OTTAWA (UPI)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker said today Canada will not consider arming with nuclear weapons until it has joint control of the warheads with the United States.

He also said Canada will make no decision on arming with nuclear weapons as long as disarmament talks proceeded.

"We know of no greater and trying question than that of nuclear weapons," he told a Canadian Club luncheon.

Canada is installing two Bomarc B squadrons, one at North Bay, Ont., and the other near La Macaza, Que., expected to go into operation late next year. Nuclear warheads would be required for maximum effectiveness of the anti-aircraft missiles.

"We shall not, whatever the situation, consider nuclear weapons until such time as we have an equality and joint control of them," he said.

CHANGES NEEDED

Such joint control would require changes in U.S. legislation as the nuclear warheads would come from the United States.

Diefenbaker also called for an early heads-of-state meeting of the 15-member North Atlantic Treaty Organization. He said economic arrangements needed to be made within the body to see that some members were not weakened by the actions of others.

Although he did not say so,

Dag Invites Pearson To UN Talk

OTTAWA (CP)—Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold of the United Nations has invited Lester B. Pearson and two other past presidents of the UN General Assembly to consult with him on organization of the world body's secretariat at the under-secretary level, it was announced today.

Mr. Pearson, national leader of Canada's Liberal party and former external affairs minister, who was president of the assembly's seventh session in 1952-53, will go to New York for a three-day meeting opening Friday at UN headquarters.

Also called in by Mr. Hammarskjold for consultations were Prince Wan Walthayakon of Thailand, president of the UN's 11th session, and Dr. Victor Belaunde of Peru, who presided at the 14th session.

Mr. Pearson's office said the assignment will require that he spend two or three weeks end of the Christmas holidays in New York.

Uranium Industry Expands Research

TORONTO (CP)—A $1,250,000 research program aimed at reviving Canada's sagging uranium industry was announced today.

The program—bankrolled by six major uranium companies—will be headed by Frank Forward, University of British Columbia metallurgist who developed the ammonia leach process for recovery of nickel.

"This is a united effort by the mines to keep our industry alive," said Gilbert LaBine, founder of Gunbar Mines.

Canada's uranium industry is facing the prospect of complete collapse by 1965 because of world over-production and the end of United States contracts.

Mr. LaBine said six mines have organized to set up the Canadian Uranium Research Foundation to finance the program.

Such a co-operative move, he said, is a "first" in the country's mining industry.

Mines involved are Gunbar, Rio Algom, Dennison, Faraday, Bicroft and the government-owned Eldorado.

The foundation will spend $250,000 a year, Mr. LaBine said, with $1,250,000 already pledged by the mines.

Today's Traffic Trouble Tip

Know All Light Signals

By AB KENT

There is a good deal more to know about red and green traffic lights than the simple fact that one stops on a red and proceeds on a green.

Full knowledge of all the functions of the lights, and of the driver's responsibilities in all cases, will make city driving easier and the pedestrian both safer and less of a nuisance.

For example, a flashing red light means stop and proceed when it is safe, and a flashing green light—rarely encountered—means approach, but in a manner that allows a stop if necessary before reaching the light or crosswalk in the vicinity, and at all times yield to any pedestrian.

And incidentally, for the benefit of A. C. Baker, 2420 San Carlos, a flashing amber light at an intersection means a hazardous point; proceed with caution, yielding to pedestrians.

The motorist facing the red flashing light at a cross road where two types of signal are combined—red applying to Lansdowne, amber to Cadboro Bay Road, for example—simply must wait until it is safe to start.

Dealing with the ordinary two-phase traffic signal such as the one at Pandora and Fernwood, with its sequence of green, amber and red lights, movement on the red light is permissible if a right turn is intended and the driver first:

Approaches the intersection in the lane nearest the curb, comes to a full stop, signals his turn, gives way to pedestrians and other traffic and in no way interferes with other traffic—and provided there is no posted prohibition or other instruction.

For instance, at certain peak traffic periods police erect temporary signs forbidding right turns at such points as Douglas at View and Fort.

This same general topic will be continued in Friday's column.

Send your traffic problems to Times Traffic Trouble Tips.

THIS WORLD OF OURS

People and Things

(Times News Services)

ALAMEDA, Calif.—Herman the tomcat spent Thanksgiving at the veterinarian's today, giving a judge time to ponder whether he should order the allegedly free-loving feline confined to quarters.

The cat's owner, Russell Bowler, reported Herman had a fever and received internal injuries after being stolen from his basement and "clobbered" early Tuesday.

Alameda County Superior Judge Ralph E. Hoyt had under advisement a request for an injunction to keep Herman at home.

The order was sought by Mr. and Mrs. J. Howard Cook, who live kitty-cornered from the Bowlers. The Cooks also asked $3,500 damages from the Bowlers. They charged that Herman, "possessed of fiendish intelligence," broke windows, plowed through closed screen doors, twice attacked Mrs. Cook and mauled several of their dozen Siamese cats.

But at Wednesday's injunction hearing an impassioned defence of Herman was entered by John Paul Jones, the Bowler's attorney. Jones dived into the spirit of the case with poetry.

"Herman stands before this court charged in equity in tort.

"Merely because as a feline sport

"He stopped to chat

"With a cat

"And got in a spat.

"But we do not ask your pity

"For this he male, Herman kitty,

"From Alameda's island city.

"We ask only your equity."

But Mrs. Cook argued that it was Herman's rough-neck tactics and not his amorous behavior that she was opposed to. Besides, she said in perhaps the unkindest cut of all:

"I've never seen any evidence that the cat is fertile. There's been no great rise in the neighborhood in the birthrate of yellow-striped kittens."

The Cooks' attorney, Owen Gentry, told Hoyt that Herman was "possessed of a fiendish intelligence."

He asked that Herman be "decapitated . . . or at least decapitated in part."

OTTAWA—Conservation officer Wayne Robinson turned up Wednesday night at the home of Harry Sevigny. He carried a search warrant—sworn out after someone had reported seeing Sevigny with an out-of-season deer.

The "evidence" turned out to be a deer head, stuffed 30 years ago, which Sevigny had brought home Wednesday in his car.

DALLAS—To a fellow who lived 111 years before taking his first airplane hop, Thomas Reason says it's downright impressive to view the bustle of city traffic from aloft. "First time I realized anybody could be so safe up above all these dangerous automobiles," observed Reason, whose short flight Wednesday was a birthday present.

"I wish I could learn to fly one of these things."

"Reason was a cowboy, farmer and sawmill hand in his younger days."

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J.—Dorothy Shamblin, 10, sent a local paper $2, asking the paper to run an advertisement about her father's new gas station.

She said the money was from the allowance of herself and her four sisters.

The letter was inspired by Dorothy overhearing her father tell a customer that he had five girls but wished he had five boys to help him with the station.

Dorothy and her older sisters offered to help their father, Roy, but he told them, "little girls don't work around gas stations."

The New Brunswick Home News mailed back the $2 telling Dorothy that it was putting the information about her father's gas station in a news story, and there's no charge for that.

RENAME ARMY CAMP

Around the giant Congolese army camp Leopold, renamed Camp Kokolo Wednesday after the colonel killed Monday, Congolese soldiers were digging in.

Two Indian UN officers were in hospital with serious injuries after being beaten by revenge-seeking Congolese soldiers Tuesday. One, Maj. M. V. Gore, was threatened with paralysis as a result of broken vertebrae.

The UN stopped its radio broadcasts to the Congolese population.

Pascal Kappella, acting head of the Congolese information department, told a press conference:

"The soldiers are very nervous. They don't want to go on living without their commander Kokolo. If it were not for their officers, the worst could have happened."

POLARIS MISSILE SUB COSTS $126 MILLION

LONDON (UPI)—Home Secretary R. A. Butler told the House of Commons today that each American Polaris missile submarine costs $126 million.

Butler made the statement in answer to a question from opposition Laborites on government defence spending plans.

Laborite Emrys Hughes called the cost "really astronomical" and asked the government to promise Britain wouldn't "spend out money in this way."

Butler replied, "I cannot give such an assurance." He said the $126 million figure for Polaris missile submarine costs was supplied by U.S. authorities."

HUTCHISON

However, that the present trading partners, now booming economically, would grow together more closely in their politics.

These statements were obviously designed to meet Britain's fear that its membership in the Common Market might involve future political commitments. Britain would not consider such commitments for a moment, Dr. Erhard indicates that they are unnecessary.

Sixth, Dr. Erhard rejected out of hand the popular notion that Germany, France and their four partners of the Common Market are trying to build up a "third force" and power bloc between the United States and Russia. Europe's security and freedom, he said, must depend on its close cooperation with the nations of the free world overseas. For Europe will be "sufficiently strong only within the framework of the Atlantic Community."

Finally, Dr. Erhard attributed Germany's miraculous recovery from the last war to a low tariff policy in foreign trade, a private enterprise system of intensive competition and a successful attack on monopolies.

These announcements of German policy at a moment of deep, organic change in the alliance of the free world were made to this correspondent under formal and rather solemn circumstances.

It was not easy to see the economic master of Germany at all when he was engaged in a shaking contest of internal German policies, an accumulating disagreement with French policy on several fronts and a complicated foreign exchange problem. In the end he agreed to grant a brief interview, flanked by his experts, on condition that his statements be taken down verbatim by his personal interpreter, a charming young German woman with a superb English accent.

Classroom Theories Put to Work

There was no time to ask more than a few sharp questions as Dr. Erhard appeared in a vast, palatial office, the nerve centre of the free world's most successful economic system.

The figure who greeted me with friendly but firm manners did not look like the general manager of German industry and, as he hopes, the successor of Chancellor Adenauer. He looked, instead, like a professor, as he is, the only professor on record who has made his classroom theories the operating mechanics of a great nation.

This astounding person has the crimson, unlined face of a kewpie doll. A cigar is perpetually clamped between his teeth and a glass of plain soda water is always within reach of his hand. He speaks in a quiet, relaxed tone but, as the translation showed, with a shrewd choice of words, a mastery of deliberate understatement. Here was a man of unique talents and towering ambition, carefully disguised.

What he said at this interview provides a convenient starting point for the exploration of a new world situation intimately affecting the troubled economic affairs of Canada.

The story will be told here in subsequent dispatches. At the moment it is sufficient to say that the new situation is not what most Canadians and their politicians imagine, is infinitely more complex and disturbing than this nation has begun to understand.

But as Dr. Erhard intimated, the free nations of the West can find a way out of a deepening morass. That way must be a bold, imaginative and constructive approach to a true economic partnership of the North Atlantic region. In this breakthrough, if it is to be attempted, Canada must play a major part. The alternative is the political and economic stagnation of the free world or worse.

MINER Alan Rose, 27, was rushed by special plane today to a hospital in Toronto from Timmins where he has been under treatment since being rescued after 69 hours trapped in a gold mine. Rose's physician, Dr. R. N. Bissonette, said Rose needed the better treatment facilities available in Toronto.

Diefenbaker was obviously referring to the Inner Six and the Outer Seven trading blocks and the effect their policies have on NATO members who do not belong.

He also said the policies and purposes of NATO need to be reviewed in the light of the decisions made at the Communist summit meeting in Moscow.

He firmly opposed the plan of French President Charles De Gaulle for a NATO triumvirate composed of France, the United States and Britain.

"We take our NATO commitments seriously and we will not accept a subsidiary or secondary position," he said.

Diefenbaker also said a "realistic view" must be taken of Red China's position in world affairs.

CAN'T BE IGNORED

"So vast and almost numberless a people cannot be ignored," he said. "The world is too interlocked with its common dangers to exclude almost one-quarter of the human race from the areas of major political settlement."

Canada has steadfastly opposed the admission of Red China to the United Nations. Diefenbaker did not mention Red China and the United Nations in the same breath, but his reference came during the section of his speech devoted to the world body.

"The aggressive declarations of the leaders of mainland China in tone and content cast a frightening shadow of fear over mankind," he said.

Liberals Swamp Foes To Win Quebec Seats

QUEBEC (CP)—The Quebec Liberal party overwhelmed all opposition to win two provincial byelections Wednesday, picking up two new seats.

Premier Jean Lesage immediately called the victories proof of growing Liberal popularity.

Both Liberal wins took seats away from the Union Nationale party. The byelections were the first electoral tests since the Liberals ousted the former Union Nationale government in Quebec's general election June 22. Winning in Joliette riding was Gaston Lambert, a 40-year-old industrialist, Victor in Rouville riding was Francois Boulais, an economist.

Both vacancies, the only ones in the legislature, were caused by resignations. Mr. Barrette had represented Joliette since 1935 before resigning in his dispute with other party officials.

Laurent Barre, 74-year-old former agriculture minister, had held Rouville almost continuously since 1931 for the Union Nationale. He resigned shortly after Mr. Barrette, giving poor health as his reason.

'Effort Not Enough On Jobless'—Argue

(From Times News Service)

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal cabinet is reported to be considering a compromise solution aimed at preventing a nation-wide railway strike early next month.

Informants indicate the plan involves a part-time, part-late approach to the multi-million dollar wage scrap between six railways and some 111,000 "non-op" workers.

The first part would probably involve about $9,000,000—possibly as a temporary federal subsidy—to meet the cost of the first two steps of a three-stage wage settlement proposed by a federal conciliation board.

In effect, it would mean the "non-op" workers—railway employees who do not operate trains—would get half of the proposed 14-cent hourly wage boost, two cents retroactive to last Jan. 1, plus five cents from Sept. 1.

Early Foreign Affairs Debate Urged

Prime Minister Diefenbaker said he would like to hear Parliament debate the international situation "at the earliest possible date."

"I will do everything I can to expedite an early discussion of these very important matters," he told the Commons.

Replying to Harold Winch (CCF, Vancouver-East), Mr. Diefenbaker said there are many problems of an international nature on which it would be "helpful" to have the views of the Commons.

He added that he hopes to announce shortly the date of the next prime ministers' conference in London, which would discuss matters of "signal importance." It would be "most helpful" to have the attitude of the House on such matters.

Mr. Diefenbaker told the Commons Canada has received no representations from the United States to modify or restrict its trade relations with Cuba.

He made the statement in reply to CCF Leader Argue, after Trade Minister Hees had

Mixed Races Barred From Office

PRETORIA (Reuters). Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd today rejected a policy of "limited integration" and said colored (mixed race) persons would not be allowed to become senators and members of Parliament in South Africa.

In an interview with the pro-government newspaper Die Transvaler, Verwoerd said that to have colored persons sit in Parliament as was asked by the opposition United Party "would mean allowing limited integration, which would not satisfy the outside world."

Verwoerd said "parallel development" presented the only peaceful solution as far as South Africa's colored persons were concerned.

Integrationists who wanted to make concessions to colored persons would only be paying the way for integration of all races, Verwoerd said.

The London Daily Mail reports Verwoerd "has only a slim chance" of keeping his country in the Commonwealth unless he softens his racial policies before the nation becomes a republic next year.

A Daily Mail story says this was the outlook after the first exchange of private views among the other 10 member countries of the Commonwealth during recent weeks.

Rupert's House, oldest trading post of the Hudson's Bay Company, was built near the James Bay outlet of Rupert River in 1668.

Senator W. Ross Macdonald said Wednesday the Progressive Conservative government tossed the Canadian people a "grab bag" wrapped in mystery in its Throne Speech declarations.

The Senate opposition leader said in the Upper Chamber that the speech was not received with great enthusiasm by any group in Canada.

"We just don't know what is going to come of it," he said.

More Effort Needed To Combat Pollution

OTTAWA (CP)—A Progressive Conservative MP who lives not far from the industrial city of Sarnia said Wednesday Canadians will have to spend a lot of effort just to stay abreast of the problem of pollution.

They will have to expend even more effort if they are to bring about any improvement in the situation, J. W. Murphy (PC-Lambton West) told the Commons.

Speaking on a government resolution calling for federal loans to help municipalities construct sewage disposal plants and trunk sewers, he said few Canadians realize the seriousness of the pollution problem.

The resolution was later approved and a bill embodying its proposals given first reading.

"Our method of dumping sewage into our water is not only unsavory but unsafe," Mr. Murphy said.

Mr. Murphy is chairman of a Canadian-American committee formed last September to stop the proposed drilling for oil and gas in Lake Huron.

The committee was instrumental in getting an Ontario government committee set up to examine the whole question of oil-gas drilling on the Great Lakes. In the meantime, there is to be no drilling off the Ontario shore in 1960.

Under the legislation proposed, sewage disposal and treatment plants will be built "right across the country," Mr. Murphy said. Parliament is being asked to set aside $100,000,000 for this purpose.

The resolution also called for a change in the National Housing Act whereby a person could borrow 95 per cent of the lending value of a house, instead of 90 per cent as now. This will reduce the down payment.

Harold Winch (CCF-Vancouver East) suggested the government consider putting up 100 per cent of the cost of housing for rental to senior citizens, veterans receiving low pensions and other such categories.

Under his plan, the municipality would contribute land for the houses at a nominal cost. The government would recover its investment, with interest, over 35 or 40 years, then the ownership of the house would revert to the municipality.

In an interview with the pro-government newspaper Die Transvaler, Verwoerd said that to have colored persons sit in Parliament as was asked by the opposition United Party "would mean allowing limited integration, which would not satisfy the outside world."

Verwoerd said "parallel development" presented the only peaceful solution as far as South Africa's colored persons were concerned.

Integrationists who wanted to make concessions to colored persons would only be paying the way for integration of all races, Verwoerd said.

The London Daily Mail reports Verwoerd "has only a slim chance" of keeping his country in the Commonwealth unless he softens his racial policies before the nation becomes a republic next year.

A Daily Mail story says this was the outlook after the first exchange of private views among the other 10 member countries of the Commonwealth during recent weeks.

Rupert's House, oldest trading post of the Hudson's Bay Company, was built near the James Bay outlet of Rupert River in 1668.

Senator W. Ross Macdonald said Wednesday the Progressive Conservative government tossed the Canadian people a "grab bag" wrapped in mystery in its Throne Speech declarations.

The Senate opposition leader said in the Upper Chamber that the speech was not received with great enthusiasm by any group in Canada.

"We just don't know what is going to come of it," he said.

Congo Mission Stalled

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—United Nations efforts to bring peace to the Congo ran into another roadblock today after President Joseph Kasavubu persuaded a conciliation group to hold up its trip to the chaotic country.

The 15-nation Asian-African mission, scheduled to leave today for Leopoldville, suddenly cancelled its trip Wednesday night when Kasavubu asked for time to prepare public opinion in the Congo to receive the UN delegation.

Delegates here had been apprehensive as to what kind of reception the group would receive from angry Congolese soldiers aroused over the killing of four of their men in a clash with UN troops.

The chief aim of the mission was to bring Kasavubu and Patrice Lumumba, deposed Congo premier who has been supported by the Russians.

NEW AIRLINER HITS 640 MPH

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—Convair division of General Dynamics Corp. Wednesday announced completion of a new jet airliner designed to cut 15 minutes from transcontinental flight time.

The company said the 188-foot-long Convair 990 will cruise at 640 miles an hour, 25 mph faster than the smaller Convair 440, which the firm calls the fastest jet on commercial routes.

The speed thus would be just below that of sound—660 mph at high altitudes.

They will carry from 96 to 121 passengers.

BOMARC HITS MISSILE

ELGIN AIR FORCE BASE, Fla. (AP)—A Bomarc-B missile intercepted a jet-powered missile speeding northward across the Gulf of Mexico Wednesday at more than 1,300 miles an hour.

The ground-to-air Bomarc intercepted a converted Regulus II at an altitude of more than nine miles above the Gulf.

Emergency or 'Difficulties'?

THE DECISION OF THE party leaders not to take up valuable time with an extended debate on the Speech from the Throne was a wise one. The way is cleared for quick action on unemployment. But what comes now?

Neither the Speech from the Throne, nor Mr. Diefenbaker's discussion of it in the House gives any indication that the Government has formed a fundamental philosophy on the state of the Canadian economy. The several stop-gaps it has proposed do not indicate its real intentions—if it has any real intentions. And so long as Mr. Diefenbaker insists that there is no emergency, only "difficulties," it is difficult to see how a basic approach can be made to the problem.

A program of public works, or of stimulation of private building such as the Government promises in several bills can have no basic effect on unemployment this winter. No plan of any magnitude can be got under way before next summer—and it is during the coming winter months that the need will be most severe.

In the second place, such a program of work can affect only a portion of the unemployed. You cannot put Canada's 400,000 unemployed persons to digging sewers or building houses or working on roads. Most persons are not trained or physically fit for such work. What, then, is planned for the bulk of the unemployed men and women in the country?

A more fundamental solution to the problem—a general irrigation of the national economy—must also take time and cannot be fully effective this winter. The time for such an approach was months ago, when the signs of danger became evident.

What long-term plans are in prospect? The Government has not announced these. They were not included in the Throne Speech, nor need they necessarily have been included. They may be outlined in the forthcoming "baby budget," but even that adds more delay.

There have been hints. The Government plans to spend more money—a serious decision when the budget, which was balanced last spring, now shows a great deficit. The Gross National Product, which Mr. Fleming had estimated would increase by some 6 per cent, in the first half of this year grew at only a third of that rate. Next year's budget will probably be in much greater deficit.

Some look to deficit spending to stimulate the economy. But there seems to be little hope of this. On the experience of other years we cannot feel that this would get at the basic problem. Governor James Coyne of the Bank of Canada argues, indeed, that deficit financing at this time will only make the situation worse.

That is an argument between Mr. Coyne and the Government. What the people of Canada are concerned about is the Government's program to get at the roots of the Canadian economic problem as it is demonstrated in a deficit budget, slowed-down national productivity, rising unemployment, a staggering national debt and a huge imbalance of trade with our neighbor. If there is such a program, surely now is the time to reveal it.

It Rates Top Priority

THE RECENT SHOOTING INCIDENT between Tunisian troops of the United Nations command and Congolese forces was most unfortunate and has done nothing to further the U.N. work in the Congo or to win the co-operation of the Congolese.

The fighting arose over Colonel Mobutu's order to the Ghanaian charge d'affaires to leave the country. The Ghanaian refused, asserting Colonel Mobutu did not have the authority to issue such an order. For some reason not yet clear, the U.N. supported the Ghanaian representative with armed troops, and these were soon attacked by Congolese soldiers. Colonel Mobutu's order prevailed, and the Ghanians have left the Congo.

The U.N. is thus in the position of having aided an element which has been widely accused of Communist sympathies and of working to increase tension in the Congo. It is also in the position of having fought Congolese forces and lost, since the final result of the engagement was departure of the Ghanians.

The duty of the U.N. forces in the Congo is to preserve order and keep out of domestic battles. That is a dual role admittedly difficult to carry out, but in this case the situation appears to have been mis-handled and the U.N. cause set back.

It is hard at this distance to appreciate the full details of the Congolese problem. But what is apparent at any distance is that the U.N. mission to the Congo is one of the most important it has ever undertaken. Success or failure could affect the whole future course of the world organization.

It is a situation in which the best brains available to the United Nations should be actively employed not only in formulating policy in New York but in carrying it out in Leopoldville. It is a game strictly for the first team.

Happy Losers

NO SEATS CHANGED HANDS in Britain's "little general election" last week, but the results of the seven by-elections imply significant trends in the English voters' minds.

The Conservatives retained six seats, Labor held onto Ebbw Vale, where the late Aneurin Bevan's friend, leftist Michael Foot, was elected.

Although without victory at any of the polls, Britain's Liberal Party is jubilant. It replaced Labor as the runner-up in four contests and leaders see in that development a resurgence of strength which they expect to increase.

Mr. Foot's victory in Ebbw Vale is not surprising. He campaigned in a constituency over which the spiritual mantle of Nye Bevan remains. But the outcome of the vote can provide scant comfort for Mr. Gaitskill. Mr. Foot is not one of his ardent supporters. Rather is he one of the champions of action divergent to the moderation of the Gaitskill school. His return to parliamentary ranks promises further embarrassment for the deeply divided Labor forces.

The results of that division seem apparent in the outcome of other polling. The Liberal gains in popular votes indicates a transfer to that party of support from many who, opposed to Conservative policies, placed their hopes and trust in Labor in former recent elections. On the basis of last week's balloting, a large portion of them have swung to the middle-of-the-road philosophy written into the Liberal platform—a philosophy on defence at least more closely akin to the Gaitskill thinking than that of many within the Labor Party itself.

If anything can be read into this trend, it is that a substantial number of British people now view Liberalism as the alternative to the party in power. Eventually the party in power goes out of power and the alternative comes into office. Should the trend shown last week continue, the Liberals could be that alternative.

In the cold, hard facts of elections, there is no second prize in the ballot box. Only the winner counts. But the outcome of most recent voting provides ample grounds for the optimism shown by the Liberals. They have reason for satisfaction, though it would be foolish in the chancy realm of politics to take it for granted that gains in popular vote will continue automatically.

Discrimination—Black and White

WHEN NNAMDI AZIKIWE was sworn in as the first African Governor-General in the British Commonwealth at Lagos, Nigeria, he used the occasion to attack racial discrimination.

With most of the principles he enunciated, democratic peoples throughout the world will agree. He could not, he said, concede that it is in the national interest of his country to fraternize with countries that practise race prejudice, adding "We must not acquiesce in such an outrageous insult on black races."

The new Nigerian Governor-General doubtless has excellent reasons for harboring such sentiments—as have all people who believe in the dignity of man, regardless of color.

His address might have conveyed more international power, however, if he had taken cognizance of a few white boys recently kicked around in the Congo. Black and white as racial discrimination appears to be in most cases, it isn't always white discrimination against black.

"... Think not of this unworthy messenger, O Charitable One ... the parcel ... it is of supreme importance ... Gasp ... Our client awaits in America ... Allah be praised, the great white flying fish may yet carry passengers ..."

HOW WEST GERMANY'S LEADERS SEE IT

'The Feeling of Belonging Together Will Certainly Grow'

THE full text of an interview between Dr. Ludwig Erhard, minister for economic affairs of the German Federal Republic, and a correspondent of this newspaper appears below. It is printed here without comment or attempted explanation but in subsequent dispatches its meaning to Canada in particular and the Free World in general will be explained. This is the start of a broad survey touching rapid and little-understood changes in the affairs of Canada and other Western nations, now approaching the watershed of decisive events.

Question:

Does the minister believe, as many people in Canada believe, that the methods of the Common Market should and could be extended to include the United States, Britain and Canada in a North Atlantic free trade area?

Answer:

The methods of the Common Market will have to be modified and adjusted, but in principle I would answer this in the affirmative. But I think it will not be possible to achieve this in one jump—to arrive at a common market or free trade area. It would probably take place in two stages: combining the European economies, including the United Kingdom (which would immediately raise the problem of the Commonwealth) and in the next phase including the United States and Canada.

Recently I have spoken before representatives of Business International and I have told them that the European economies have become stronger, that more modern techniques have been developed and that therefore also the discrepancy between the United States and Europe in the field of productivity, working conditions and also cost has become smaller. And therefore, if one views the development from that angle, markets have much more in common now.

The Common Market may always be a closer club of its own, but from the point of view of world politics this cannot be the solution. A solution requires that larger regions are created—where more countries are linked with each other. And the sooner this will be possible the sooner will also the industrialized countries be in a position to give more assistance to the developing countries.

Question:

Does Germany desire and expect the adherence of Britain to the Common Market?

Answer:

I think it is well-known that it is not only our desire but that we are fully aware of the absolute necessity for this. Looking at this problem from all angles, economic and political, the feeling is gaining ground that the European countries are belonging together and that they are confronted by a common threat. That is clearly recognized everywhere. It would be grotesque to believe that nations, who are co-operating with each other in some fields, are not doing the same also in others. I think it is common sense and the recognition of the political necessity that the EEC and the EFTA must come together.

It is not a question of finding technical solutions, but it is the political will which is required to achieve this objective. And, to be frank, it is in the first place due to some uncertainties that the understanding of the necessity for taking this decision does not yet exist everywhere.

Question:

Would Germany be willing to consider plans according to which Britain could join the Common Market without sacrificing all her Commonwealth preferences, especially on food, which is very important for Canada as far as wheat is concerned?

Answer:

There would certainly exist such a willingness. One might, for example, start from the assumption that the preferences would be confined to the present volume of trade. And, in addition, even within the Common Market it will be necessary to work out special arrangements concerning agriculture. Why should it then not also be possible to have special arrangements with regard to the United Kingdom and the Commonwealth?

We know that the United Kingdom will not wish to destroy the principles applicable within the Commonwealth. But I have the feeling that one tends to over-rate the importance of the preferences. We have also some experience with foreign markets and in this country nobody would consider the Commonwealth preferences to be a serious obstacle to one's commercial interests in foreign markets.

Question:

Would the minister say that the principles of private enterprise and competition have been the major factors of the miraculous recovery of the Federal Republic after the war?

Answer:

We have pursued a liberal policy in post-war Germany not only with regard to the above two factors, which have certainly been important. But there is also a liberal policy in foreign trade, in the field of tariffs, the free formation of prices and there is the action taken against cartel agreements.

Question:

In discussions with representatives of the British Government it was said that Germany should do something to reduce the excessive gold and foreign exchange reserves by either a revaluation of the Deutschmark or by greater capital exports or by some other means. Would the minister comment on this view?

Answer:

In the first place, I should like to point out that I am not at all happy about the German balance-of-payments surpluses. One must not assume that it had been our wish to see them accumulated and to regard them as an advantage. That would not be correct. It is rather the other way round. We are aware of the fact that these permanent balance-of-payments surpluses

Degrading

The New York Times

THE frenzied effort of segregationist demagogues in Baton Rouge and a racist rabble in New Orleans to subvert the Constitution and substitute anarchy for law is as degrading and dangerous a thing as has happened in our country since the events in Little Rock three years ago.

It is degrading because it is motivated by hate and fear; it is dangerous because it undermines the fabric of our democratic society and it impairs both the good name of the United States abroad, and good faith in our intentions.

If the Un-American Activities Committee and the other internal security specialists are looking for disloyalty to American ideals, they have only to go to Baton Rouge and New Orleans.

There are so many revolting aspects of this situation that it is difficult to single out one for special mention; but today we would call attention to the economic lynching that is now being carried out in the city of New Orleans.

The father of one of the four little Negro six-year-olds who set off the furor by daring to attend a hitherto "white" school has, for that reason, been fired from his job.

Economic pressure against Negroes of the South to prevent them from exercising their franchise rights is nothing new, and it is as mean and effective a form of pressure as can be conceived. Here it is in a school case, a patent effort to starve out Negro citizens courageous enough to believe that the law is what the courts and the Constitution say it is.

The conscience of America will not condone the actions of the teenage mobsters in New Orleans and their elders who taught them how to hate.

are not only looked at by foreign countries as an annoyance but we, too consider them to be representing a disturbing element, because it becomes more difficult to maintain internal economic stability.

We are therefore working out a program for giving greater assistance to the developing countries and for encouraging higher exports of private capital. With that we hope to reduce the surpluses or, at least, to keep them from rising further. But it would be speculation to expect a revaluation of the Deutschmark.

Question:

Does the minister believe that at the end of the economic integration of the Six and possibly together with the Seven there will also be a gradual development towards a political integration of Europe? And will this process, create a third force between Russia and the United States?

Answer:

The economic integration between the Six and the Seven will certainly enhance the feeling in these countries of belonging more closely together also politically. But I do not think that this will lead to the establishment of a new state of Europe in the sense of public law. We realize among the Six, where originally so many hopes had been harbored, that France is not inclined to surrender any part of her sovereignty. In addition, the lives and civilizations of the individual European countries are so different, taking as examples only Switzerland, Sweden and the special situation of Austria, that they do not allow of any very intimate connection between them. Therefore, the feeling of belonging together more closely also in politics will certainly grow. But this will not lead to the setting up of an entirely new state of Europe.

Apart from that I do not believe that Europe will develop into a third force. I think the security and the freedom of the peoples in Europe depend on Europe always co-operating closely with the United States and Canada. And only that combination will be sufficient to ensure the attainment of these objectives. This does not mean that Europe should not make greater political efforts to work for its own defence and protection. But it will be sufficiently strong only within the framework of the Atlantic Community.

In the Opinion of Our Correspondents

Before It Is Too Late

I, for one, have not "been able to read the details of the fourth draft of the proposed signs bylaw," and am horrified and greatly disturbed by what was revealed in Mr. Colin Graham's letter in Wednesday's Times.

Gradually and insidiously, the charms of Victoria are being dissipated by lack of vision and imagination in those who should know—to put things on the lowest plane—the economic value of such things.

Time and time again visiting tourists have been heard to exclaim, "Victoria is becoming more and more like any ordinary city—why don't you do something about it before it is too late?"

More power to Mr. Graham and to those with similar ideas.
SARA SPENCER.

Overcharged

It seems our homeowners taxpayers are paying more than their share of the costs of running a capital city for the province and a business centre for the area.

Does this picture have to remain unchanged as the years roll by, the city gets shabbier and we get poorer?

Personally I think it can be changed. Not overnight, but with some dispatch once the situation is admitted. It can be prolonged by ill-will on three sides, but I think the advantages of making an end to years of shoving by an amiable settlement between ourselves, the business community, and the provincial government should appeal to all interests. For years there have only been two sides to this long-standing squabble, and the homeowners majority has been left with the cheque because they had no effective spokesmen. This must be ended before we, the homeowners, go bankrupt.

It should also be ended before the capital becomes a laughing-stock as an example of everything wrong with city development in the 20th century. Already, besides an overburdened majority of taxpayers, we have two crime-breeding slums, a young persons' court which is starved for funds and authority, a bus service paid for by users of electricity, an access and parking problem which is strangling the heart of the city, and a basic area which is not legislatively or economically able to look after itself. What a fate to befall the lovely country around Clover Point where James Douglas splashed ashore a hundred years ago.

I don't mention these unpleasant things simply to be destructive, but rather to point up the fact that there is much at hand to be done, and this can hardly be called an "off" year in city affairs. A few more "off" years like this and we will really be in the soup.

Dr. Lane-Petter of England, who defends research on animals wants 10,000 cats a year for the researchers. (Cat stealing goes on all over the country.)

Dr. A. E. Barclay, formerly professor of medical research at Oxford, states that "cats are no good for scientific research as each cat gives a different result from the others."

This is not surprising. Every genuine cat lover knows that the intelligence of the cat is very high. If they are using it to work out their own salvation in this unique fashion anti-vivisectionists of the future may be able to say: "The exemption of cats from vivisection was accomplished by the cats themselves."

How Far Have We Come?

IN one of my favorite November day-dreams, I am a castaway thrown up by the storm on a small island. It is easily identifiable either as Little Trial or Chain. Miraculously I am dry and equipped with an axe, a knife and a working cigarette lighter. If you arrange your day-dreams properly, you can always make provision for these essentials.

Stott

In the fantasy, the beach is covered with driftwood. My first activity is to collect it to erect a shelter. This I accomplish with the aid of my axe, the opening facing away from the wind, the roof made of overlapping boards taken from the tide line.

Then I set about making myself a fire, shaving those little dahlia-like starting sticks that pioneers used to coax a blaze from flint and steel. My flint and steel is the cigarette lighter. After that I spear a fish with a sharpened pole in the narrows of the island where the tide runs. I gut it and skewer it on a stick thrust into the ground in front of the fire.

That done, I retire to my shelter, rest snug and warm and wait for the fish to cook. The rain, which has been falling without wetting me, provides a source of fresh water to drink.

In comfort I contemplate the sociological status in which I rest, wondering if it's savagery or barbarism. This leads, inevitably, to a philosophical abstraction in which I try to decide how narrow is the margin between those two primitive forms of society and the so-called civilization we live in today.

In my day-dream I create shelter, warmth and food. How much more, I wonder, does modern man demand of his environment?

You think of a human being restricted to the satisfaction of these simple wants and ask, "What to him the Pleiades?" Sure. But apart from Bert Petrie and a dozen other of my friends, what to any of them the Pleiades? Some probably think Pleiades plays tailback for the San Francisco Forty-Niners. And if, by chance, I hadn't read a short piece by Edwin Markham I'd probably accept his belief.

My thoughts turn from those of us who nourish a relatively blind life within the brain to a couple of young people I know who are taking advanced study at Oxford. One is in bio-chemistry, the other in solid physics. They are moving ahead in their work, enjoy the amenities a cultural centre offers, theatre, music, ideas, art.

And their big preoccupations, it seems, are shelter, warmth and food. They have shelter. They have food, though the young lady involved protests the price of eggs in England. But they haven't warmth—which is a normal condition for most Canadians who have lived in British winters for a year or two.

It is a source of indignation to the young man of the couple that the English, so competent, so intelligent, so inventive, just refuse to do anything about warmth. As he rises from his chair before the small English hearth where a coal fire glows, and blows fuses by trying to add another electric heater to his overloaded circuit, while his young wife stays close to the kitchen gas cooker—for warmth as much as for meal preparation—he becomes angry.

He expostulates against the English attitude. "They pretend it doesn't matter," he says. "They glory in their stoicism. They contract colds and rheumatism and they scoff at sensible people who object to the dank, pervading chill."

I talked once about central heating to an Englishman in a cosy Truro, Cornwall, bar. He seemed incredulous that anyone would be so impressed by the desire for warmth. He had his open fire at home, he explained. Admittedly it left his back cold, but he could gaze into the glowing coals, see his visions and dream his dreams. How could a person dream dreams, he asked, looking at a heat register. I told him that in Canada we had, very frequently, both furnaces and fireplaces. The concept eluded him and he murmured, "All this and heaven, too."

So I return to my day-dream about shelter, fire and food on my castaway's island—fairly basic factors of life, but not all essential—in the opinion of some of my English acquaintances who know about the Pleiades. But I find a flaw even in my own day-dream. I don't like fish.

TODAY'S BEST FROM EUROPE

Keep Atom Deterrent In U.S., Briton Urges

PARIS (Reuters)—A British delegate at the conference of Atlantic Pact legislators here today proposed that the Western nuclear deterrent be left in American hands and confined to United States territory.

John Strachey, Labor member of the British parliament, opposed establishment of a NATO nuclear pool as suggested by U.S. Gen. Lauris Norstad, supreme commander of Atlantic Pact forces in Europe. Strachey spoke against making NATO the world's fourth nuclear power—with the United States, Russia and Britain—and argued that the West needs only "one unified, fully effective... heavy retaliatory force"—based on the other side of the Atlantic and not in Western Europe "under enemy guns."

The British socialist addressed the conference following an appeal by U.S. Senator Estes Kefauver (Dem. Tenn.) for full participation of the NATO nations. In a special commission to study ways of promoting political and economic co-operation.

RUSSIA OKAYS FINN TRADING WITH U.K. BODY

LONDON (Reuters)—Russian Premier Khrushchev today said the Soviet Union has nothing against Finland joining the European Free Trade Association, if it does not interfere with Finnish-Russian trade and its expansion, Moscow radio reported.

Khrushchev made his statement at a lunch given for visiting Finnish President Urho Kekkonen.

The Soviet premier said, however, he is generally opposed to "exclusive economic groups."

"In our view trade should be developed on a common European basis and without discrimination," he said. "All countries would profit by such a state of affairs."

Finland has been thinking for some time of joining the British-led Outer Seven trade association, a rival to the six-nation Common Market.

FAST RELIEF FOR RHEUMATIC PAIN

The week-long annual conference of about 200 parliamentarians is only a study and advisory body and its decisions are not binding on member governments.

Kefauver said the commission would study such problems as how to develop a joint political authority adequate to control a NATO nuclear deterrent.

High Arrow Plan Scored

NAKUSP, B.C. (CP)—Federal and provincial governments in Canada and the United States received strong criticism of High Arrow dam proposals at a meeting here Wednesday.

The meeting was called by the Nakusp Chamber of Commerce to form a committee to present a brief protesting granting of a licence for the dam by the water controller of B.C. if, and when such a licence is applied for.

Nearly 40 representatives from Kootenay chambers and municipalities from as far away as Kelowna unanimously agreed to protest.

Most present at the meeting will be directly affected by flooding if the dam is built. All agreed that Mica Creek power and storage dam is "a must" in the development of the Columbia.

IGNORING FACTS

F. J. Bartholomew of Vancouver, B.C. resident professional hydro-electrical engineer, said that "to enter into a treaty which has to be paid on for the next 20 to 30 years is foolish and closing our eyes to the facts."

He said the High Arrow was an "unjust proposal of no value to us." It would "rob us of forests and possibly mines." Its only justification, he said, would be as a power dam rather than a storage dam.

The meeting decided to ask chambers from Castlegar, Nakusp, Revelstoke, Nelson and the lower Arrow Lakes to elect two representatives each to act on a committee which will present the brief.

LONDON LETTER

By WALLACE REYBURN

The One-Armed Bandit's Lair

LONDON—It seemed a strange place for it to be, in a quiet residential area on the edge of Regent's Park. But there it was—the newly-opened head office for Britain of the American Coin Machine Equipment Co.

Reyburn

Fruit machines by the dozens, in the front window and on display on the sales floor. Right out in the open, all in readiness for the legalizing, come Jan. 1, of the one-armed bandits.

Because of the novelty—for Britain—of seeing them for sale in a store just like washing machines or TV sets, I dropped in to have a chat with the boss.

He turned out to be a middle-aged, smooth-talking American named Jack Mitnick, who had been many a long year in the slot machine business in Chicago, New York, practically every big North American city. Even Toronto.

Not that he was very happy about Toronto, because of an "unfriendly" attitude by the authorities towards his products.

He showed me his various models, which retail here at from $316 to $1,237, and explained that his firm was in the business merely of selling them to whoever wished to buy—it didn't service them or operate the machines.

The mention of operating fruit machines naturally led me to ask him what's all this we hear about American gangsters moving into Britain to get slot machine rackets organized.

"There's no room in London for American gangsters," he said.

Company Town Role Ends at Grand Falls

GRAND FALLS, Nfld. (CP)—The giant Anglo-Newfoundland Development Company has announced it intends to discontinue administration of this central Newfoundland town it carved out of the forest 55 years ago.

In a notice on the plant bulletin boards, the company said it would recommend to the provincial government that Grand Falls be incorporated next January as a local government district administered by a board of trustees.

If exempted from paying municipal taxes, the A.N.D. would pay $100,000 annually to the town for 20 years "towards the capital requirements of the community."

A trustee administration is a step below town status.

"The company made the decision," said the brief notice, "in view of the growth and importance of self-government and the state of development which Grand Falls has attained."

As a company town, Grand Falls' 6,500 residents have no mayor. The A.N.D. runs the paper mill and employs about 1,650 of the townfolk. Most of the others depend on it for a livelihood.

Joan, Elizabeth Spruced Up For New Owners

Victoria Machinery Depot Ltd. has been awarded contract to do underwater work on the ex-CPR Princesses Joan and Elizabeth before they leave for their "new life" in Europe.

The new owners of the ships have authorized VMD to dock both of them and prepare the bottoms, which have been fouled while moored and out of service.

The CPR has not announced details of the sale, but shipping circles here know the ships were bought by Greek interests.

Princess Elizabeth will be first into Government Graving Dock at Esquimalt, entering Monday afternoon.

It is likely VMD will receive a further contract to prepare the superstructures for the long ocean crossing.

JAPAN GOODS SEIZED WITH PHONY LABELS

SYDNEY (AP)—Australian customs officers are reported to have seized thousands of pounds worth of Japanese-made goods bearing pirated Australian trade marks.

Sydney newspapers said today the fake trademarks were mainly on automobile parts. These, they said, include brake linings with the mark of Holden, Australia's most widely used auto, hub caps with English lettering similar to the caps on Volkswagen and Morris autos, and hub caps marked Ford.

WEST PLAYS DIFFERENTLY

New Look Needed On Rider Defence

VANCOUVER (CP)—"It's a dilemma," sighed Frank Clair.

That really isn't a new approach, because the Ottawa Rough Riders' coach is probably the most pessimistic—and certainly one of the ablest coaches in Canadian pro football.

"This is one of the strangest games I've run up against since I came to Canada 10 years ago," he confided Wednesday night.

He referred, of course, to Saturday's Grey Cup clash against the western champion Edmonton Eskimos. It will be televised nationally by the CBC.

"The kind of football they play in the east and west is quite a bit different. He haven't been up against a team like Edmonton and we've got to introduce a new look to our defence."

GEARED TO PASSING

The Ottawa defence has been geared until now to stopping the passing of quarterbacks Tobin Rote of Toronto Argonauts and Sam Etcheberry of Montreal Alouettes.

Rough Riders' defensive team didn't have to worry much about the running game of any club in the Big Four, but now it is up against Edmonton's smashing twin fullbacks, Johnny Bright and

By DOUG PEDEN

Edmonton Eskimos will be giving away pounds and pounds along the line when they tangle with Ottawa Rough Riders at Vancouver's Empire Stadium Saturday, but nobody around the Eskimo camp appears to be fretting about poundage.

Eskimos, who reached the Grey Cup football final by clipping the defending champion Winnipeg Blue Bombers in a drama-packed western playoff, will probably start with an offensive line that averages about 205 pounds per man. Only one guy, tackle Roger Nelson, can push the scales around to 225 pounds.

That may sound bulky enough to the average man on the street, but it might be noted that the smallest regular line-man for the Riders is tackle Kaye Vaughan, who weighs in at a svelte 220 pounds. And the biggest obstacle scowling across the hash marks at the Eskimos Saturday will be Ottawa tackle Angelo Mosca, "daddy" of Canadian gridiron Goliaths at a boisterous 270 pounds.

Strep Throats Source of Worry

While the Eks may not be worrying about size, there's a little thing called a germ that has all the Eskimos, from Keys down to the club trainer, biting fingernails today.

Three of the Eagle's offensive starters have been bedded down with cases of strep throat and there are fears that the infection may carve a bigger trail through the Edmonton camp.

Two-way halfback Rolfe Miles, Nelson and Jim Letcavits were all under medical supervision on Wednesday night at the team's hotel headquarters.

All are expected to be in action in Saturday's pigskin classic, but the infection usually makes eating and strenuous breathing difficult and the trio may be below par for the cup clash.

Their absence and the fact that quarterback Jackie Parker is still limping with a "charley horse" presented Keys with some extra problems as he ran the Eks, through their first outdoor workout since arriving in Victoria Tuesday.

The Eks, working in sweat suits and cleats, were hustled through a strenuous session Wednesday afternoon at Royal Athletic Park. Photographers and reporters were allowed in the park for the first 30 minutes and then Edmonton officials closed the gates and the Eks got down to serious toil.

Eks Have 'Pretty Good' Report

"We worked mostly on defence," Keys said later. "Keys was also stressing defensive tactics during a three-hour morning session at the hotel when he discussed a scouting report on the Ottawa club for the first time with his players."

"We think we have a pretty good scouting report," he said, "but we don't have much time to work on it. We are making some defensive changes and we won't play Ottawa the same way we played Winnipeg. In fact, they may have more adjusting to do than we have."

"There'll be few changes on defence," Eagle added. "We probably have hundreds of plays."

Disturbed by the strep throat attacks and injuries to Parker and pile-driving fullback Johnny Bright, Keys may still have some serious thinking to do before deciding on his lineup for Saturday.

Sharpshooters In Jones Family

Frank led the men with 516 while Mrs. Jones scored 458 to lead the ladies.

Conceded Point In Last Minute Gives Rams Win

By ERNIE FEDORUK

Ron Mahoney, the traveler from Winnipeg, has a right to feel "it was worth coming 1,500 miles" to a football game in Victoria.

So if the coach is satisfied, and the promoters of the "Little Grey Cup" game are happy, then you have to feel sorry for the young man who grew up in a hurry. It happened Wednesday night at soggy old Royal Athletic Park.

The reference is made to the defensive captain of Victoria's All-Stars, who so generously conceded the winning point while the minute flag soggily fluttered on the sidelines. That was the point that gave Winnipeg Rams a 7-6 victory in what is hoped to be the first of a regular playoff series for the Western Canada juvenile championship.

It was the weird and wonderful finish that had the fans—in excess of 2,000—talking as they filed towards the exit.

Let's Set Stage

Let's go over that finish again.

The score was tied 6-6. Winnipeg moved to Victoria's 15-yard line and, confronted by a third-down situation, Rams' Brian Elwood elected to kick for the winning point.

It seemed a sure thing, especially after Elwood smartly chose to send the ball into the "coffin corner" where there was little danger of All-Stars kicking the ball back.

But, whoa now...

A penalty flag was down! And miracles such as this that make sports events exciting appeared in the making. The penalty was against Winnipeg and it meant Rams would be assessed a 10-yard penalty and the third down would have to be taken over again.

More important, it was a second "life" for the All-Stars. They had another chance to avert a single.

Take Your Pick

The option clause in the rule book calls for the defensive team to accept or decline the penalty. It's their right.

Victoria's defensive captain, in the heat of the encounter, declined the penalty and conceded the point.

It is, perhaps, part of growing up and there is no doubt this particular juvenile grew up in a hurry. He'll probably never make that mistake again.

And nobody will ever know if the All-Stars could have averted the single had the right play been made. Chances are, Rams still would have made their point.

Overlooking the drawn-out introduction ceremonies, it was, all in all, a grand show.

Rams Enjoyed Edge

Rams appeared to hold a slight edge in territorial play and the final score seems justified. The young Winnipeggers broke a scoreless deadlock by counting their only major in the third quarter. Halfback Pete Kuntz did the honors from five yards out.

All-Stars tied the game with about five minutes left in the game, taking advantage of a poor snap on an attempted punt. Victoria took the ball on Winnipeg's 10-yard line and two plays later starry Jack Heath went over for the major.

That set the stage for Elwood's game-winning single.

The turnout, considering the conditions, was excellent, so the sponsoring Victoria Minor Football Association must be congratulated for its success.

Your Play, Denny

On that count, allow Denny Velch to do the honors. Coordinator of minor football for the professional B.C. Lions, Velch reported while the score was still tied: "It's a great game. The trouble with a lot of us is that we underestimate our kids and our coaches."

Other testimonials about the game itself came from the coaches—Mahoney of Winnipeg and Victoria's Ralph Sinden and Jack Bryan.

Said Mahoney: "It was worth coming 1,500 miles. That was the best football game we have been in all year. And, mind, I'm also taking into consideration that it's the first time in three years any of my boys have played in the rain."

"I could only wish that these two teams had met on a dry field, and under better conditions."

"Amen," said Mr. Sinden.

"Amen," said Mr. Bryan.

Mount View Favored In School Boot Final

If Mount View High can't win the city senior school soccer championship this year, then it would appear it never will.

Boasting an unbeaten, unscathed record in regular season play, the Views meet Victoria High Friday at 3:15 p.m. on home ground in the first game of a best-of-three series.

Vic High qualified for the final by beating Oak Bay High in a sudden-death playoff game after they tied for second place at season's end.

Mount View will field a well-balanced squad with no weak links. Most of the players turn out regularly with Lower Island Junior and Juvenile Soccer Association teams.

On the strength of a better defensive record and a 3-0 win over Vic High during the season, Views are rated solid favorites to win the city championship.

New York Rangers are not winning many games this season, but it's hardly because veteran players like Andy Bathgate, Andy Heberton and Camille Henry have lost their scoring touch.

Bathgate has been Rangers' top point-getter for the last five seasons but Heberton and Henry were both rated as question marks before the 1960-61 National Hockey League season got under way.

Wednesday night the trio accounted for five goals as the last-place Rangers dumped Boston 6-3 at New York to move within one point of the fifth-place Bruins in the NHL standings.

Bathgate, 28, was the big star, becoming the eighth player to score at least three goals in one game this season. The three goals raised his total to 12 for the season.

SCORES 10TH GOAL

Henry, 147-pound left-winger whose fragile frame makes him susceptible to injuries, scored the winning goal and added three assists. The goal was Henry's 10th in 17 games.

Heberton, making a comeback after a sub-par 1959-60 season, also scored his 10th goal and collected two assists. The one-time Victoria Cougar also has 23 points for a share of fourth place in the league's scoring race.

Dean Prentice got Rangers' sixth marker while Leo Labine, Charlie Burns and Jerry Toppazzini scored for Boston.

New York's victory was only their sixth in 20 games but their third straight over the Bruins at Madison Square Garden.

Rookie goaler Bruce Gamble, playing in his fifth NHL game, made 31 saves for the Bruins as Rangers carried an edge in play throughout most of the game.

Lorne (Gump) Worsley stopped 24 shots.

Calgary Stampede finally got a piece of the Western Hockey League's first place Wednesday night and they served notice they intend staying there for some time.

The Stamps scored two third-period goals to defeat Winnipeg Warriors 5-3 in Winnipeg.

They are now tied with Edmonton with 22 points, four ahead of third-place Seattle Totems, but Calgary has a game in hand over the Flyers. Rookie Art Lariviere was in the nets for the regular Lucien Dechene, who re-injured his ankle in the previous Calgary game. Lariviere handled 19 shots and Winnipeg netminder Harry Lumley, 20.

TWO FOR BRISSON

Calgary marksmen were Ron Leopold, Wally Hergesheimer, Gerry Esch, Cliff Bristow and Sid Finney.

Gary Brisson, with two, and Al Nicholson scored for Winnipeg.

The league is idle tonight, but two games are in the books for Friday. Victoria Cougars open an important home-and-home series with the Canucks in Vancouver, while the Spokane Comets play in Edmonton.

Cougars return to Memorial Arena ice Saturday night, entertaining the Canucks before a Victoria audience for the first time this season.

Rousseau Sent Back to Farm

MONTREAL (CP)—Montreal Canadiens announced that rookie Bob Rousseau has been returned to Hull-Ottawa of the Eastern Professional Hockey League and that Gilles Tremblay is being retained.

The two young forwards were recent call-ups because of injuries to members of the National Hockey League club.

Meanwhile, the Canadiens announced goalie Charlie Hodge of the EPHL Montreal Royals will join Canadiens in Detroit Thursday because of the possibility goalie Jacques Plante may not be able to play against the Red Wings tonight.

Plante re-injured a knee Wednesday in practice.

Extra Games Forced In World Cup Series

BERLIN (AP)—East Germany's S.C. Wismut Karl-Marx-Stadt Wednesday beat the Austrian champions Rapid Wien, 2-0 in a preliminary round for the European Soccer Cup.

The Wismut victory means a playoff at a neutral site to decide which team goes into the quarter-finals. Rapid Wien won the first match 3-1.

CHUALO DOWN TWICE

Although there were no official knockdowns, Chualo hit the deck twice in the 11th round. Cleroux, frustrated and tired, clamped a hold around his waist and hurled him to the canvas each time.

Referee Jack Sharkey, the former world heavyweight champ, warned the Montrealer but took no points away. Sharkey did not score the fight.

On the five-point must system, judges Bobby Leitham and Leo Germain gave it to Chualo 57-43 and judge Harry Shulman scored it 55-53.

'PROMOTE GROWTH IN OUR ECONOMY'

QUEBEC (CP)—Economist Walter Gordon said Wednesday Canada's biggest economic troubles are a declining rate of per capita output and serious unemployment.

The problems will get bigger if Canada persists in restrictive monetary and exchange policies and high interest rates instead of those that will "promote growth and expansion throughout the whole economy," he told a chartered accountants' meeting.

"I believe the problem will get worse if in economic and financial matters the government continues to be erratic in its course, sometimes indecisive and over-cautious, sometimes imprudent and over-anxious," said Mr. Gordon, who headed the royal commission on Canada's economic prospects in 1955.

His short-term solutions:

1. Easier money policy and lower interest rates to stimulate manufacturing and production.
2. Balanced international trading, particularly with the U.S.
3. An extensive program of urban renewal and redevelopment, including construction of low-cost rental housing units.
4. A case could be made for a reduction in personal income tax "to stimulate the economy quickly."

Long-term solutions included better vocational or technical training and higher education.

BUSINESS VIEWS

First-Aid Attendants Propose Law for Closed-Shop Status

Times Business Editor

A proposed piece of legislation which would have the effect of putting industrial first aid attendants required in most B.C. industrial operations, into a professional self-regulating and closed group is attracting comment these days.

The legislation is being sponsored by the Industrial First Aid Attendants' Association which wants to set itself up as a professional body to regulate all first aid in industry and to prevent any first aid men, regardless of their ability to pass the examinations set by the Workmen's Compensation Board, from holding jobs unless they are association members.

What industry fears, of course, is that eventually the association would be able to insist that industrial first aid attendants should be hired as professionals in that capacity only; that is they would not be able to work at any productive jobs while also being on call in case of accidents.

COULD WORK HARDER—This would be particularly hard on small operators—those whose working force is just around 25 persons where an attendant is required—since the addition of even one non-productive worker to the payroll can make a big difference in a marginal operation.

Usual practice in field operations—in logging, construction, oil well drilling, for example—is to have the first aid man perform some useful duty such as time-keeping and other paper work which may be necessary.

Another angle which raises worries is that once the association had obtained its closed shop status, employers could be subjected to a salary squeeze. Required by law to hire first aid men and prevented by law from hiring any but association members, industry would have to pay whatever the association demanded or face the prospect of being closed down through the actions of a small and, relatively speaking, unimportant group of workers.

As a sidelight to all this, it would seem that the proposed "Act Respecting the Practice of Industrial First Aid" would also have the effect of cutting the St. John Ambulance Society out of the first aid training picture so far as industry is concerned. The association, it is stated, would authorize the training curriculum.

It is too early yet to say how far this piece of legislation will go. Victoria members of the association have been canvassed for $10 fees to help promote it but there is apparently a strong under-current of resistance to the "closed shop" aspects of the legislation. At least one petition protesting the move is being circulated among Victoria first aid attendants.

A special meeting of Pacific Petroleum scheduled this Friday to consider the $100,000,000 Pacific-Phillips Petroleum-Sunray Oil assets merger deal has been put back until Dec. 20 in Vancouver.

Deal is for Pacific to acquire all the Canadian holdings of Phillips and Sunray—including 2,000,000 acres of oil and gas lands, interests in refineries at Dawson Creek and Taylor, and retail and bulk outlets in the Peace River and along the Alaska Highway. Pacific would issue 6,622,383 shares of treasury stock in the deal and it is understood that this would in effect give Phillips the controlling interest in Pacific.

Bank of Nova Scotia's annual statement reports assets at a new high of $2,125,323,400, an increase of $278 million for the year. Profits before taxes at $14,750,000 showed a 20 per cent increase and were equal to $2.95 a share compared to $2.87 the previous year. Dividends this year were up five cents a share at $2.30.

BRITISH FORD CUTS TO FOUR-DAY WEEK

LONDON (AP)—The Ford Motor Company of Britain announced today its 18,000 employees on passenger car production will be cut to a four-day week starting next Monday.

Other sections of the British motor industry already have cut working hours because of reduced exports.

NEW YORK (CP)—The nine-team inter-league baseball schedule appears due for the scrap pile as the American and National Leagues head for a showdown in their squabble over the lush territory in Los Angeles.

The American League wants in, determined to go ahead with its expansion to 10 teams next season. The National, in the person of Walter O'Malley, owner of Los Angeles Dodgers, wants the American to stay out until the Dodgers' new park is completed.

The man in the middle is baseball commissioner Ford Frick, who wants a show of good faith, an agreement that is "fair and equitable," before either league moves into the other's front yard.

And still reported to be mentioned in the discussions is Jack Kent Cooke, owner of Toronto Maple Leafs of the International League. Cooke has long campaigned for a big league franchise.

The Herald Tribune says there is a possibility Toronto might replace Los Angeles in American League expansion as opposition mounts against the inter-league proposal.

ALTERNATIVE OFFERED

The American League, failing to reach agreement with O'Malley, offered its startling interleague alternative Tuesday. It said it would postpone entry into Los Angeles until 1962 and operate as a nine-team league next season—if the National also agreed to add a club and enter into an inter-league schedule.

Even the American League admits it isn't likely the National, which turned down a similar plan a year ago, will approve the proposal.

Frick also indicated he thought there was little chance for the inter-league idea. He has set up a meeting here next Wednesday with American League-president Joe Cronin and National League head Warren Giles, together with the league's lawyers, to draft an amendment to the rule governing territorial rights.

The amendment would be presented to the 16 club owners at the joint league meetings in St. Louis Dec. 8.

The rule states that one major league can move into a city occupied by the other only with unanimous approval of both.

HERE AND THERE . . .

With NORMAN CRIBBENS

"Is there any water polo in Victoria?" asks William J. Samuel, now visiting here from Portland. Yes, there is. This boisterous game is played every Sunday afternoon in the swimming pool at the Canadian Services College, Royal Roads, and spectators are welcome.

There are four local teams which compete in these games, those of the Royal Canadian Navy, the Canadian Services College, Victoria Amateur Swimming Club and Victoria College.

Congratulations impending: George Chapman of 1588 North Dairy Road will be 85 on Christmas Eve. His wife will be 82 on New Year's Eve. They have been married 60 years and have 10 grandchildren and 26 great grandchildren.

A Victoria dentist hastened to agree with Toronto publisher Jack McClelland that a successful dentist would be unlikely to write a successful novel even about a dentist.

"What do we see to write about?" he sighed. "Most of the time we are like old moles peering into holes."

Philip Holmes, as president of Victoria Real Estate Board, takes an unholy delight in slamming Vancouver. "I wish they'd stop sending us their foul weather," he told a local gathering. "And then, a few minutes later, said: 'Mr. . . . cannot be with us tonight. He went to Vancouver and was struck down by that poisonous flu they breed over there.'"

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Karnel Singh Jowl, 1648 Warren Gardens, was fined $15 when he pleaded guilty in city police court Wednesday to operating a sawdust truck without a cover over the load.

Victoria Jaycees, seven-strong, who will be on bicycles in the Grey Cup parade in Vancouver Saturday, want umbrellas.

The English type—black, furred handle. It's part of an approach to make Victoria look the way it is—wet, and perhaps English. Persons who wish to volunteer umbrellas should contact Cam Jamieson at EV-63377 during 8 to 3 office hours.

A province-wide civil defence exercise will be carried out Jan. 5 and 6 to test communications under the new zone set-up, it was learned today.

The province is broken down for CD purposes into six zones with two or more areas each, comprising target areas and mutual aid areas.

It will be strictly a telephone, teletype and wireless exercise, in which army personnel, who handle theoretical re-entry problems in the event of a nuclear disaster, will participate.

ASK THE TIMES

Q. Exactly what is metabolism? L.K.P.

A. It's the process by which all living things—men, animals and plants—transform food into energy and living tissue.

Q. When did John L. Lewis become president of the United Mine Workers in the U.S.? F.T.

A. In 1920.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the question along to The Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily. All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or old things. These should be submitted to dealer.

Final examinations of the Institute of Chartered Accountants of Quebec were passed this week by a Victoria man, E. Raphael Jackman, 28, son of W. P. Jackman of 14 Boyd Street. He was a student at St. Louis College and articulated with Ismay, Bolston and Dunn in Victoria.

Saturday night public observation periods at the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory on Little Saanich Mountain will be discontinued after this Saturday.

They will start again in early April, officials said. Eighteen-year-old Charles Edward White, HMCS Naden, was stopped by police carrying beer along the highway and in Colwood RCMP court Wednesday he pleaded guilty to being a minor in possession of liquor.

Magistrate A. I. Thomas fined him $50 and $5 costs.

The local Canadian Scottish Regiment Cadet Corps has won the Gourlay trophy for being the regiment's most proficient cadet corps on Vancouver Island.

The unit was presented with the trophy at a ceremony in the Bay Street Armory, Wednesday. The presentation was made by ex-Sgt. Maj. James Gourlay, after whom the trophy is named.

At the same time the corps received a grant from the Lord Strathcona Trust Fund after being placed fourth out of 40 cadet corps in the province.

First annual meeting of the Society for the Preservation and Maintenance of Craigdarroch Castle will be held Saturday, Dec. 10, at 3.30 p.m. at "The Priory," 729 Pemberton Road, the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. Lloyd Morgan. Special guest will be Mrs. F. G. Hood, daughter of the Hon. E. G. Prior, who built "The Priory" in the 1880's. There will be a brief talk on the history of the house and the Prior family. Election of officers will be held.

City council today was to permit the police department to hold an auction of unclaimed bicycles Dec. 10 at 10 a.m. at the police station.

Members of Victoria Model Airplane Club will visit Duncan on Sunday to put on a display of model flying at the high school there. It is hoped the display, which starts at 2 p.m., will arouse enough interest to form a model airplane club in Duncan.

Pacific Zone of the Model Aeronautics of Canada held its annual meeting here in Victoria last weekend and local enthusiast Doug Collis was elected zone director for his seventh term.

Discounting as "absurd" a man's claim he could drink 10 or 12 bottles of beer without affecting his ability to drive, Magistrate William Ostler today fined the motorist $250 for impaired driving Nov. 6.

Frederick Haun, 2506 Prior, had pleaded not guilty to the charge, laid after a police car followed his car several blocks when the officer noted it weaving.

As part of his defence Haun said he could drink "10 bottles for sure" in a period of three hours and still drive properly.

Ald. A. I. Curtis today was to ask city council to seek a new formula that would be easier on the city in sharing costs for School District 61 (Greater Victoria).

DR. HITSCHMANOVA REPORTS ON 35,000-MILE WORLD TOUR

Tonight at 8 Dr. Lotta Hitschmanova will tell of needs and sufferings of persons elsewhere throughout the world, and how Victorians can help.

She will address a public meeting in the Ingraham Hotel, 2907 Douglas.

The doctor, director of the Unitarian Service Committee, travelled 35,000 miles this year in numerous countries, checking on USC-provided requirements. Needed to meet obligations for 1961 is $240,000 for 70 projects.

Admission to the lecture, "Journey With A Purpose" will be free. However, the audience will be limited to 200 under fire marshal regulations.

Greek Crews Here For Ex-CP Ships

Those old overnight boats, the Princess Joan and the Princess Elizabeth, will sail for Greece under the Greek flag next week.

Sale of the Canadian Pacific steamers to Greek shipowner Anastasios Potamianos of Athens was confirmed today by the crews who have arrived here to take the ships to the port of Piraeus. No announcement was available from Canadian Pacific, and the purchase price was not disclosed.

"We shall sail on Friday or Saturday of next week," said Captain N. Kavounides, who is now in command of the two ships.

"The Greek flag will be hoisted in place of the Canadian Red Ensign."

Labor legislation asked in the brief is much the same as requests made last year. Main point is request for cabinet power to call in arbitration for any dispute which would "imperil the health or safety of the general public."

Other amendments to the Labor Relations Act desired include: Ban on closed shop, abolition of conciliation boards with government mediation can council seats.

NEWEST CONTESTANT for Saanich council in Dec. 8 election will be R. W. Chard, 40, a lawyer, who lives at 3774 Hobbs. He was an unsuccessful candidate in 1957. Mr. Hobbs, in law practice here 11 years, is a graduate of the University of Alberta. He makes the seventh candidate seeking one of the three vacant council seats.

Police arrest six on theft charges

Six overnight arrests—including a young woman—brought to nine the number of people charged by Greater Victoria police forces in a drive against burglaries and thefts that began to mushroom Tuesday.

The RCMP, city and Saanich police expect to make further arrests or at least add to the growing list of charges, one of which includes goods of more than $1,000 value, another referring to tools and cash worth around $700.

In city police court today Patricia Joseph and Frederick James Morry of Victoria pleaded guilty to breaking, entering and theft of a number of cigarettes at Mal's Cafe, 2251 Government early this morning.

Morry's brother, Ronald, facing the same charge, pleaded not guilty and bail for him was set at $2,000.

PROBATION All will reappear for disposition Tuesday, when a probation report for the woman is expected to be ready.

Four men, two previously charged in Saanich police court, elected trial by judge and jury when they were charged in Colwood RCMP court today with breaking and entering and attempted theft at a Mahalast service station.

They are Donald Nelson, and Barry Jackson, of Victoria; Robert Borgal, no fixed address, and Albert Jenik of Vancouver.

Jenik was charged previously with thefts and possession of house-breaking tools in Vancouver.

This afternoon, at Saanich police court regular sitting, one additional man was to be charged with theft of tools from a store and equipment rental place and with possession of plumbing fittings from a construction site at University of Victoria.

A policeman said Wednesday charges are expected to number in the dozens before the current clean-up is over.

Break-ins, burglaries on increase

Four radios valued at $384 were stolen by someone who broke open a rear door at B.C. Sound and Radio, 931 Fort, before 2.35 a.m. today.

City police reported this burglary as the latest of a series of thefts reported Wednesday, in which goods and cash of a total value exceeding $220 were taken.

Eighty dollars cash was taken from a box in an unlocked vault at Peoples Finance Ltd., 1405 Douglas, during the lunch hour.

A $75 radio was stolen from the room of George Burkman, 615 Courtney and steer horns valued at $45 were taken from the Roundup Grill, Quadra St.

A car radio was stolen from an auto owned by Mrs. Beverley Tiller, 903 North Park, when it was parked overnight Tuesday in front of her home.

Full Inquiry on Education Finance 'Urgent Need' B.C. Government Told

The B.C. Chamber of Commerce today asked the provincial government for a Royal Commission on education financing.

It called the inquiry "an urgent need."

The businessmen's group, in its annual brief to the cabinet, said it will support all improvements recommended in the Chant Royal Commission, and wants a follow-up inquiry on financing.

The brief also urged:

- New labor legislation at the Jan. 26 session of the legislature;
- Conditional export of hydro power, and control of new hydro projects by the B.C. Energy Board;
- Reduction in income and business taxes;
- Grants in lieu of taxes for provincial buildings within municipal areas;
- A federal-provincial conference to discuss cost-sharing in a 10-year highways program;
- All possible action to stimulate northern development, particularly in co-operation with Alaska.

THIRTY DELEGATES

Chamber president Maurice P. Finnerty of Penticton headed a 30-man delegation which met the cabinet this morning.

The Chant Report on education is now in the hands of the government, but has not yet been made public. Release is expected early next year.

However, the chamber said it will support "desirable changes and refinements" that it recommends.

The finance inquiry, the brief said, should look into how money is raised and spent on education.

"There is an urgent need for the establishment of a commission to enquire into education costs and financing and to determine a fair division of financial responsibility between provincial and municipal authorities," it said.

GREAT CONCERN

The brief added, "The adverse financial position of municipalities continues to be of widespread concern."

Labor legislation asked in the brief is much the same as requests made last year.

Main point is request for cabinet power to call in arbitration for any dispute which would "imperil the health or safety of the general public."

Other amendments to the Labor Relations Act desired include: Ban on closed shop, abolition of conciliation boards with government mediation condition: "So long as it was only for a period satisfactory to B.C."

As a renewable resource, power is ideal for export, the brief added.

All new power projects should be screened and approved by the B.C. Energy Board, it said.

Of particular interest to Victoria is the recommendation that the B.C. government pay grants to municipalities where it maintains provincial buildings.

Mayor Percy Scurreh said such taxes on the Legislative Buildings would be worth from $250,000 to $300,000 a year to Victoria.

The 10-year highway program, also presented last year, includes such projects as extensions of the Vancouver Island highway north to Port Hardy and paving of the Alberni-Tofino Road.

Compromise Made At Eleventh Hour In Arena Wrangle

Fireworks Fizzle Out After Night Meeting

An all-out battle in city council today over the Memorial Arena controversy was averted by an 11th-hour meeting between the arena commission and five aldermen.

The 3½-hour "no holds barred" meeting Wednesday night produced a compromise agreement under which:

1. A replacement for arena manager Joe Dukowski will be sought as soon as possible within the three months that his resignation takes effect;
2. Assurances were given that fair consideration will be given to any applications for re-employment by the six employees who resigned last month, touching off the controversy;
3. Commission member Courtney Haddock will withdraw his threatened resignation;
4. Ald. Hugh Ramsay, council's watchdog on arena affairs, will withhold a request for a public hearing.

The sudden meeting was called by commission chairman F. G. Mulliner. It started at 8.30 p.m. in the commission's board room and did not break up until almost midnight. Besides the commission, Ald. Ramsay, Ald. Arthur Dowell, Ald. Geoffrey Edgewood, Ald. M. H. Mooney and Ald. Elmer McEwen were present.

not be in the taxpayers' interests because we don't want to get into a chaotic situation where they would have to add to the $40,000-odd the ratepayers chip in every year to keep the arena going."

He said wif's assurances that the six employees would be given fair consideration if they want their jobs back and that

Mr. Dukowski would be replaced as soon as possible within the three months:

"The situation seems to be in the process of being cleaned up and so I will not ask for a public hearing. But if the agreed arrangements are not carried out I foresee more than one resignation from the commission."

CONFIDENCE

As a result of the understanding reached, Ald. Ramsay said he would support a motion of confidence in the commission "with the qualifications I have mentioned."

Mayor Percy Scurreh, who was not at the arena meeting, said he felt the compromise arrangement was the wisest course to follow.

Mayor Scurreh said he did not believe that any "useful result would come from a public inquiry" after having read the affidavits and Mr. Dukowski's statement.

"There is no suggestion of any shortage as far as money is concerned as the books have been audited and found in first-class condition."

UNDER PRESSURE

"The disagreements (between Mr. Dukowski and his staff) were an accumulation which had grown up ever since the manager took on the management of the hockey club. Everyone was working under pressure and it grew and grew. There is no doubt about it, the manager make mistakes and he has been reprimanded by the commission for those mistakes."

"On the other hand, the arena is one of possibly two or three in Canada which has consistently made a profit. During 1959-60, the profit was $57,810 and the average profit during the past 10 years has been $37,244. This would indicate good management."

"I'm withholding my resignation," Mr. Haddock said today. "I've been assured by the meeting last night that the commission will look after the interests of the six employees and that's all I wanted in the first place."

"We reached a compromise on everything in general and I think the situation at the arena will be completely cleaned up."

Ald. Ramsay said the Wednesday night meeting "saw no holds barred and many accusations thrown both ways but I feel we really got to the core of the issue."

"We wound up with what appears to be a unanimous decision on the future of the arena. I feel now a public hearing would accomplish little. It would just be rehashing dirty linen which would

Fireworks Fizzle Out After Night Meeting

An all-out battle in city council today over the Memorial Arena controversy was averted by an 11th-hour meeting between the arena commission and five aldermen.

The 3½-hour "no holds barred" meeting Wednesday night produced a compromise agreement under which:

1. A replacement for arena manager Joe Dukowski will be sought as soon as possible within the three months that his resignation takes effect;
2. Assurances were given that fair consideration will be given to any applications for re-employment by the six employees who resigned last month, touching off the controversy;
3. Commission member Courtney Haddock will withdraw his threatened resignation;
4. Ald. Hugh Ramsay, council's watchdog on arena affairs, will withhold a request for a public hearing.

The sudden meeting was called by commission chairman F. G. Mulliner. It started at 8.30 p.m. in the commission's board room and did not break up until almost midnight. Besides the commission, Ald. Ramsay, Ald. Arthur Dowell, Ald. Geoffrey Edgewood, Ald. M. H. Mooney and Ald. Elmer McEwen were present.

not be in the taxpayers' interests because we don't want to get into a chaotic situation where they would have to add to the $40,000-odd the ratepayers chip in every year to keep the arena going."

He said wif's assurances that the six employees would be given fair consideration if they want their jobs back and that

Mr. Dukowski would be replaced as soon as possible within the three months:

"The situation seems to be in the process of being cleaned up and so I will not ask for a public hearing. But if the agreed arrangements are not carried out I foresee more than one resignation from the commission."

CONFIDENCE

As a result of the understanding reached, Ald. Ramsay said he would support a motion of confidence in the commission "with the qualifications I have mentioned."

Mayor Percy Scurreh, who was not at the arena meeting, said he felt the compromise arrangement was the wisest course to follow.

Mayor Scurreh said he did not believe that any "useful result would come from a public inquiry" after having read the affidavits and Mr. Dukowski's statement.

"There is no suggestion of any shortage as far as money is concerned as the books have been audited and found in first-class condition."

Traditional German Bowls Ideal for Christmas Gifts

By PENNY SAVER

Will you be giving goodies to a neighbor this Christmas or perhaps fruit to an elderly relative? If so, I suggest you take a look at extremely attractive star-shaped bowls that have just arrived from Germany. They'd be ideal for fruit containers. These are made of moulded cardboard, measuring about 12 inches in diameter and are what German children use instead of Christmas stockings. They're truly works of art, being centred with scenes depicting children in native costume, snow-swept landscapes alive with tiny deer and red-breasted robins and other European motifs. Bowls are moderately priced at 29 cents.

Looking for a present for someone who travels a great deal? Why not get one of the handy immersion heaters that are reasonably priced at $2.50. Heater comes in its own red plastic case and has a long lead and plug.

Plug in and place heater in your glass or cup and a warm, fragrant drink will be ready in two minutes.

Other immersion heaters come complete with aluminum cup in an attractive silver-grey quilted case that has a zipper opening. These sell for $3.95.

At last year's Festival of Christmas decorations in the Empress Hotel one of the displays that persistently brought admiring "Oooooohs!" and "Ahhhhhs!" from the spectators was an arrangement featuring elegant gold birds made from pine cones.

Birds, which are imported from Denmark, are now available in one store I was in this week. Whether you use them in table or mantel decorations, on the tree or as novel trims on your Christmas parcels they're bound to lift their nesting place out of the mediocre. Box containing six birds is selling at 79 cents.

Birthday Party

Thirty-one guests attended a party given by the poetry group of the local branch of Canadian Authors in the Colquh Avenue home of Mrs. W. H. Yardley in honor of the 91st birthday of Mr. James Morton, newspaperman and secretary to three former premiers of British Columbia. Mrs. Clara Hill Maunsell arranged party. Branch president, Mr. Frank Conibear, presented the guest of honor with framed pictures of his former employers, Mr. John Oliver, Dr. J. D. MacLean and Dr. S. F. Tolmie. Mr. Morton recited a poem which he had written, lauding his many friends and a former colleague, editor and publisher, Mr. Harris Turner, gave a resume of his association with the guest of honor. Centred on the head table was a decorated birthday cake made by Mrs. Yardley.

A perfect Christmas tea suggestion is this Holiday Sandwich Loaf. Red, green and white fillings are most colorful and the pimento tree, arranged on the cream cheese frosting, adds the final festive note.

Idea for Holiday Party

A lovely idea for your holiday party. One of those wonderful party foods that is easy to make, yet impresses your guests with your marvelous cooking ability. To give this loaf an extra bit of color and freshness surround it with an assortment of crisp, fresh vegetable relishes.

CHRISTMAS SANDWICH LOAF

One loaf unsliced white sandwich bread, cut into five lengthwise slices (this usually can be done by the bakery where the bread is purchased), ½ pound butter or margarine, softened.

Red filling: 1½ cups minced ham, 1 tablespoon chopped pimento, 1 teaspoon minced onion, ¼ cup chopped celery, mayonnaise.

White filling: 1½ cups diced turkey or chicken, ¼ cup minced celery, ¼ cup chopped nutmeats, mayonnaise.

Green filling: ½ cup chopped sweet pickles, ½ cup minced parsley sprigs, 2 tablespoons chopped celery, mayonnaise.

Three 3-oz. packages cream cheese, softened, rich milk, one 4-oz. can, whole pimentos.

Method: Combine ingredients for each filling and moisten with mayonnaise so that each spreads easily.

Remove crusts from bread and butter each slice. Starting with the bottom slice spread it with red filling, top with second slice of bread, spread with white filling, top with third bread slice, spread with green filling and continue using another layer of white and then red filling. Top with slice of bread.

Add enough milk to cream cheese to make it of spreading consistency; mix well. Spread entire loaf with cream cheese. Cut pimento in shapes to resemble tree trunk and branches. Place on top of loaf. Wrap entire loaf in damp cloth and chill for at least 3 hours or until ready to serve. Garnish plate with carrot sticks, celery fans, radish roses and raw cauliflower florets. To serve loaf, slice crosswise.

Women's Guild, St. John's Anglican Church, Saturday, 2 to 5 p.m., parish hall. Afternoon tea and stalls of home cooking, candy, aprons and needlework.

DEAR ABBY

Can't Agree, Brother!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I see by your column that you are against secretaries going to lunch or dinner with their bosses. How about a salesman entertaining a lady buyer?

I am a salesman, and you know, Ab, a salesman has to sell himself first, and there is no better way to do it than to invite the lady buyer out for a nice lunch or dinner and talk business over a cocktail or two. It doesn't cost me anything because my firm figures this is the cost of doing business. There is nothing shady about it. It's fun for the lady and profitable for the salesman, so why knock it?

NUMBER ONE SALESMAN
DEAR NUMBER: A salesman may want to "sell himself"—but all he has to deliver is the product. "A Number One Salesman" doesn't need joy juice to sell anything.

DEAR ABBY: What is the custom today with regard to asking a father for his daughter's hand in marriage? I met a young woman at church who qualifies in every respect. She has accepted every invitation to be in my company and I have courted her as a gentleman. I would like to marry her. She is 100% respectable and so am I. I think I am possibly a year or two older than her father. Under the circumstances, is it necessary for me to ask a man who is younger than I for permission to marry his daughter?

COUNTRY GENTLEMAN
DEAR COUNTRY: Age has nothing to do with it. Ask the girl's father.

DEAR ABBY: What do you do when the kids upstairs keep running a rat race day and night, knocking things off the shelves, shaking the lights and putting cracks in the ceiling? The kids are under five years old and probably don't know any better, and I beg my landlord almost daily for some peace and am ignored.

I have worn-out my ceiling ramming against it with a broom handle, and my pots and pans are bent from banging them on the ceiling to let my neighbors know I mean business. The father of these little monsters is an air force sergeant, so he should be intelligent enough to realize how annoying it is for us downstairs. Don't tell me to move. I am stuck here.

TRAPPED
DEAR TRAPPED: The kids are "under five years old"—what's your excuse? Intelligent, peace-loving grown-ups do not bang objects against the ceiling to gain peace and quiet. Walk up a flight, knock on their door, and talk with the parents.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "WAITING TO BE PAID": Take a lesson from my Uncle Henry, who was a credit manager. He sent out a letter saying, "We have done more for you than your mother. SHE carried you for nine months—WE'VE carried you for twelve. Please remit."

Sister! Don't Let Yourself Be Mesmerized by His Eyes—It's the Tie That Counts

LONDON (CP) — Listen, the next time you see a man wearing a woolen bow tie, with a small knot and squared ends, latch on to him. And if he shows any inclination towards removing the tie, marry him. He's one in a million.

This little nugget of advice comes to you via a new book called Mind, Motive and Will, a penetrating study of men's clothes. The author, A. E. Hughes, is a psychologist. It makes first-class reading for the girl who craves instant identification of male character. All she has to do, it says, is to have a gander at a man's tie.

"All the fantasies connected with sexuality can be noted in his 'self-sufficiency, confidence and independence 'towards' a man by his attention or lack of attention to his tie," is the author's conviction. But that's not all. Sex is only the beginning of necktie psychology. Take the tieless man, for example. By removing his neckwear, says the author, he is showing that his "sexuality is adult." He is displaying his "self-sufficiency, confidence and independence 'towards' a man by his attention or lack of attention to his tie," is the author's conviction. But that's not all. Sex is only the beginning of necktie psychology. ## Color Steals Into the Dinner Jacket Scene

Gone are the days of the quiet dinner jacket and black tie for men if fashions seen at the Gift and Style Show in Club Sirocco, Wednesday evening, are any criterion! Among colorful teamates shown were a burgundy red tie with matching cummerbund, gold tie and cummerbund and, getting into the spirit of St. Andrew's Day, Nov. 25, a gay tartan cummerbund and matching tie. Tailoring of men's clothes, too, rivalled women's fashions in the show. A smart three-buttoned, single-breasted suit in burnished olive was highlighted with narrow cuffs on the sleeves. Olive tones, used in either check or plain materials, dominated the male fashion scene.

Fast moving show featured gift items and fashions from the stores in the 700 block of Yates Street and was convened by Mrs. M. Carter and members of the Jaycee-Ettes. Commentator was Ida Clark, son and fashion co-ordinator, Mary Rawnsley.

FOR THE LADIES
Among many attractive gowns featured were several with the new tulip skirt. Brocades were prominent and emphasis was on materials and good styling rather than frills and trimmings.

Reminiscent of the peacock's feathers was a floor-length formal gown in gold and blue embroidered brocade that had a coachman - style overskirt posed over the slim tunic dress. Christmas red, mint frappe, green gage and grape tones were some of the exciting colors.

Jaycee-Ettes were transformed into full-skirted red and white feminine Santa Claus for this fourth annual

$5,500 Realized
A sum of $5,500 was realized at the annual all-day bazaar of St. Joseph's Hospital Ladies' Auxiliary, held Wednesday in the Nurses' Home. Affair was opened by Mrs. George R. Pearkes, who was introduced by the hospital Superior, Sister Mary Anne Celeste. Mrs. Pearkes was accompanied by Mrs. Philip Holmes.

A second showing gets under way in Club Sirocco to night at 8:30 p.m.

C.A.R.S. Patients Receive Care Through Clinic Work

A total of 1,081 visits to patients, both in hospital and in their homes, was reported by Mrs. J. Owen Jones, retiring president of the Women's Auxiliary, Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society at annual meeting in Red Cross headquarters Wednesday.

Volunteers at the clinic had increased from six to 25 during the past year, Mrs. Jones said. These volunteers had donated a total of 850 hours, assisting the physiotherapist, Mrs. Margaret Peterson, and performing other services.

Mrs. Peterson reported that a school of rehabilitation is now being formed at the University of British Columbia and that chairs of research are now in existence at UBC and the University of Toronto. She stressed importance of volunteer drivers, saying that by bringing patients to clinic who otherwise would have to receive house calls, they save money for the association.

Sum of $1,269.85 had been spent on clinic supplies and aids, Mrs. Bruce Humber, treasurer, reported. Total receipts were $2,578.54 and disbursements, $2,059.29. Of the latter figure, $416.57 had been spent on patients' comforts and $130 on arts and craft.

Take onions—6 medium to serve 6—cut into 1/4-inch slices. Place in a buttered casserole, add 2 tablespoons of water and sprinkle of salt and pepper. Cover and bake for 15 minutes in a moderate oven (350° F.). Now, remove from the oven, drizzle with honey and dot with butter. Return to the oven for 10 minutes to glaze and brown slightly, basting at least once. Delicious dish!

Public Hearings Important Part of Columbia Project

Timing of public hearings in B.C. on the Columbia River project today looms a major point in federal-provincial talks on details of a treaty to be presented to the U.S. All parties involved, Ottawa, B.C. and U.S. governments, say they want a treaty signed as quickly as possible for development of storage dams, and sharing their benefits. But before the B.C. Power Commission can build the first dam on the Arrow Lakes, it must obtain a later licence and this will involve public hearings.

DAM LOCATION
Strong objections at these hearings, coupled with possibility of engineering problems, could affect the location of the dam. The dam site is a major point in the proposed treaty between Ottawa and the U.S. So the talks now under way in Ottawa are faced with this problem: which has priority—treaty or hearings. What B.C. apparently wants is a loosely-worded clause in the treaty on the damsite. Premier W. A. C. Bennett said Wednesday these issues are being discussed at the current talks.

LAND CENSUS
If B.C.'s public hearings were over and done with before the new year, there would be no big problem. However, this seems impossible, as B.C. Hydro still hasn't completed a census of all the land involved, and has not yet applied to the provincial water controller for its water licence. If the treaty with the U.S. spells out exactly where the site will be, then B.C. is committed, even if public opinion or engineering difficulties would force a change.

Ottawa's reaction to B.C.'s proposal for a general description only will likely depend on what the U.S. wants.

At the moment, the federal government wants to get parliament to ratify the final treaty at its current winter session. U.S. ratification is hoped early in the next sitting of Congress in January, and B.C. legislature approval is expected at the session starting Jan. 26.

If all these dates are to be met, action must be swift on nailing down the final treaty details.

But if the U.S., or Ottawa, want a definite commitment on the damsites, and B.C. differs, then last-minute negotiating could hold up the whole project. The issue may depend on just how strong a hand B.C. can show at the talks which are scheduled to end today.

HAWAII SEEKS B.C. ADVICE

Ferry Operators to Meet Here

A "ferry summit" parley will be held here Monday by officials from Washington, Hawaii, Alaska and B.C. to discuss setting up a new service in Hawaii.

The meeting was called by the Hawaiian State Transportation Committee, which plans an inter-island service. Unofficial discussion of a new Alaska-B.C. ferry service may also take place.

The Hawaiians asked to meet the ferry operators who have already had experience of the type of service needed for their islands.

A meeting will be held in the Empress Hotel Monday morning, followed by a ferry trip aboard Mv. Coho to Port Angeles and Seattle.

B.C. representatives invited include Monty Aldous, manager of the Toll Authority service; C. J. Ferber, provincial comptroller-general, and Capt. O. J. Williams of the CPR's B.C. Coast Steamships service.

Also attending will be I. D. Birse, president, Washington State Ferries; R. J. Acheson, president, Black Ball Transport Inc., representative of Alaska and Washington State ferry authorities. Seattle marine architects

Philip S. Spaulding and Associates, also will be represented by Benjamin Downs. A B.C. government official said primary purpose of the meeting is to discuss the Hawaiian proposal.

However, unofficial discussion might be held on Alaska plans for a ferry from Haines to Prince Rupert in B.C. and a subsequent link south, probably with Vancouver Island.

PROBE ENDS B.C. HEARINGS

National Magazines Value Stressed by Times Editor

VANCOUVER (CP) — The importance of the periodical press to the welfare of Canada as a nation was stressed by a newspaper editor Wednesday as the royal commission on publications wound up a three-day session of public hearings here.

Collapse and disappearance of the periodical press in Canada would be a national disaster, Bruce Hutchison, editor of the Victoria Times, told the commission's closing session here.

At the same time, the commissioners heard of plans for a regional-national weekly periodical for Canada and a complaint that desire for a national identity sometimes harms "regionalism" out of which the true Canadian identity might arise.

The commission, made up of chairman M. Grattan O'Leary, president of the Ottawa Journal, advertising executive John George Johnston of Toronto and Claude P. Beaubien of Montreal, a vice-president of the Aluminum Company of Canada, left later in the day for Regina.

CIRCULATE IDEAS

Mr. Hutchison told the commission that periodical publications are the best means of circulating ideas nationally in Canada. Daily newspapers could not do so because of geographic barriers that prevented fully national distribution.

The periodicals had some other advantages, too, he said. They do not face the same dealings as newspapers and therefore have more time in which to think, explore, research and ponder. They were able also to print longer articles than newspapers and could examine ideas more thoroughly.

To Canadian writers, they were a valuable industry not only because they nourished writers of all sorts, but because they provided a source of income of sorts and encouraged newspaper men to write better copy.

Periodical publishers in Canada, however, seemed to have failed to examine sufficiently the potential of their field. There seemed to be an assumption that periodicals could succeed only through extravagance and conspicuous waste. There was left a desperate need for magazines that are cheaply printed yet filled with rich ideas, fine writing and exploration of ideas.

Speaking of fears that United States pressures may overwhelm Canadians so that they lose their identity as Canadians, Mr. Hutchison said: "The Canadian people are not getting softer but if anything harder in their distinct identity. The best proof of this fact is the present general state of alarm about the nation's future — an alarm which I consider the most healthy sign in Canada today."

Mr. Hutchison said that any suggestion to curb the flow of foreign publications into Canada "is so mad that I'm sure no one is seriously considering it."

But in reply to Mr. O'Leary, he said he would agree to some government control over this influx if it was proven that it threatened the existence of the industry in Canada. There would have to be complete safeguards, however, to maintain freedom of the press.

Earlier, Jurgen Grohne, who said he had been employed for seven years by a large consumer magazine publisher in Germany and now was in Canada as an immigrant with intention of starting a high-standard Canadian periodical, said the regional nature of Canada's makeup offers publishers a field in which foreign publications can't compete.

Prof. Ian McNairn, president of the Community Arts Council, told the commission that regionalism in Canada should be reflected in regional publications.

WAVE SMASHES OREGON TOWN

ROCKAWAY, Ore. (AP)—A giant wave smashed into this coastal resort today. It knocked three houses onto railroad tracks, collapsed the walls of another and covered a highway with four feet of water. All of the houses were unoccupied.

It was the second such huge wave to burst into the town in a month. Police said damage again was widespread but, like the first time, no one was injured.

Shooting in Court Kills 1, Wounds 2

RENO, Calif. (AP)—A sad-eyed husband killed one lawyer and wounded two others in a courtroom-shooting melee Wednesday when he feared his estranged wife and mother-in-law were getting the best of a property settlement.

Williams' first shots fatally wounded Eli Livierato, a Reno lawyer. Another shot struck Edwin Muleahy, former assistant district attorney, critically injuring him.

G. Weldon Snyder, a visiting Ohio lawyer and Williams' brother-in-law, suffered less serious wounds.

Insurance Not Responsible For $12,000 Fish Loss

When is a sinking not a sinking? The question was settled in B.C. Appeal Court here Wednesday by Mr. Justice H. W. Davey. He ruled that the Sun Life Insurance Company did not have to pay $12,000 to a fish packing firm for the total loss of 400 tons of raw herring which it claimed was ruined by sinking.

"I do not find it necessary to deal here with the meaning of the word sinking," said Mr. Justice Davey.

LOSS BY DETERIORATION

He ruled that Sun Life Insurance and other companies did not have to pay any damages to John C. Jackson Ltd. of Vancouver for loss of the herring by deterioration when a motor vessel developed a leak between the Queen Charlotte Islands and Shingle Bay, North Pender Island.

The insurance companies appealed against the judgment of Mr. Justice A. D. Macfarlane who found that the fish was ruined by "the intrusion of sea water" into the motor vessel Mina C—a minesweeper converted into a fish packer.

The alleged sinking occurred on Feb. 19, 1958, when the vessel ran into heavy weather in Ramsay Sound and sought refuge in Lyall Bay. It was a leak and the failure of the ship's pumps which allowed sea water to well up into the holds.

The sinking condition was only a later incident in the chain of events that led to the loss of the cargo, the judge ruled.

The Jackson company has to pay the costs of the appeal court action.

PARTIAL SUBMERSION

J. Allan Bourne for the Jackson company argued that the word "sinking" applied to the partial submersion of a ship's cargo so that it became useless.

He said the herring became "so putrid and ill-smelling" they had to be thrown away.

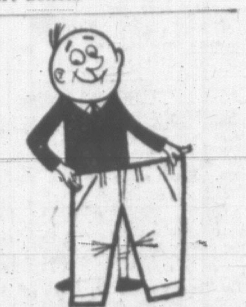

Mr. Justice Davey, in his judgment, upheld the argument of Hugo Ray, Q.C., that the Jackson company was not insured against loss by "peril of the sea" but only against collision, upset, stranding or sinking.

"The cargo was lost but not through any of the perils it (the company) was insured against," the judge said.

These perils included stranding, sinking, fire, collision, capsizing, careening or upset. The policy did not insure against loss or damage by delay, wet or dampness or by being spotted, discolored, rusted or moulded, Mr. Justice Davey said.

More Emergency Power Planned For Hospital

Royal Jubilee Hospital administrator George Masters Wednesday said a 250-horsepower generating plant will be installed in the new wing to provide additional emergency power.

He said the $30,000 unit was included in original planning of the new wing and the recent four-hour power blackout caused by a truck bowling over a power pole demonstrated the need for a supplementary unit.

The hospital has a 50-horsepower generator now which provides electricity for the heating plant, "iron lungs" and some lighting. The new unit will add more emergency power for operating rooms, case rooms, heating and refrigeration equipment, emergency ward, corridor lighting and elevators.

Dr. E. N. Boettcher, medical superintendent at St. Joseph's Hospital, which was similarly hit by the blackout, said consideration was being given to installation of a small auxiliary unit to provide power for one operating room and the hospital's corridor lights.

Navy Starts Fall Exercise

HALIFAX (CP)—The navy announced today a fall exercise involving about 12 ships, 15 aircraft and 2,000 men is operating out of the Point Edward naval base near Sydney.

The four-week exercise, embracing all aspects of maritime warfare, started Nov. 21. Also involved is the British submarine Aurechs.

The exercise is under the command of Commodore James Plomer of Winnipeg and Saint John, N.B.

WHERE IS B.C. LABOR STRIFE? PREMIER ASKS

Premier W. A. C. Bennett Wednesday chided "that new Liberal member Aln Macfarlane" for saying the B.C. government is causing labor-management strife.

The new Oak Bay MLA made the statement in a speech to Victoria Liberal Association Tuesday night.

"Where is the labor difficulty?" asked Mr. Bennett.

He said Social Credit policies and legislation had resulted in less B.C. strife.

"All labor disputes affecting our province are national," he added, pointing to the west coast grain strike and the forthcoming railway strike as two of the biggest.

Court Rejects Store's Bid For Money

An application to return $82 in burnt stolen currency to a store which took the money on account was turned down in city police court Wednesday.

The money, stolen in a safe-cracking with about $1,100 more cash at Household Finance Corp., November 6, is being held by city police.

It was turned over to them by Persian Arts Store, which took it from Barry Sharpe, 23, in payment for goods bought at the store.

Sharpe was sentenced to six months in jail when he pleaded guilty to being in possession of stolen money, a bundle of $150 worth which he bought for $20 in a beer parlor.

The currency was never entered as an exhibit and was not before the court. "There will be no action as far as this court is concerned," Magistrate William Ostler said.

Wilbert Wilson, manager of Household Finance, told Mr. Ostler his firm had instructed him to seek the money. He said the loss was not insured.

Rail Probe Report Expected March 31

OTTAWA — Canada's royal commission on transportation has set March 31 as a target date for getting its long-awaited report on rail and freight rate issues to the federal government.

REPLACEMENT—State Sen. William A. Blakely, of Dallas, above, is the Democrat named by Gov. Price Daniel to fill the vacancy which will occur when Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson resigns from the Senate to become vice-president.

Canada Wants to Operate Whole of Pine Tree Line

By DAVE MCINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada plans to take over gradually the manning of the 20 Pine-tree radar stations in Canada now operated by the United States Air Force, reliable informants say.

In exchange for assuming this job, expensive in money and manpower alike, the U.S. will give Canada a reduced price on 66 Voodoo jet interceptors to replace the aging RCAF CF-100 in the air defence system.

Canadian purchase of the Voodoo, however, is contingent on the U.S. buying 32 CL-44 transport planes from Canadair Limited, Montreal. This deal can't be completed without agreement of President-elect John Kennedy's defence secretary and is thus holding fire at least until the secretary's appointment.

GO WITHOUT SWAP

But even without this plane swap, the Canadian government wants—and intends to take over manning of all Pine-tree stations in this country. The RCAF now mans only 14 of the 34.

The Pinetree chain, still not completed, went into operation in late 1954. It extends now from the west coast of Newfoundland to Dawson Creek, B.C., and from Beausejour, Man., to the east coast of Newfoundland and up the Labrador shore to Frobisher on Baffin Island.

The Prairie gap will be filled in the next few years by five new heavy radars. Forty-five gap-filler radars are also being installed to spot low-flying planes.

Pinetree's primary purpose is to control the operations of North American jet interceptors and the flights of Bomarc anti-aircraft missiles.

NEED PERSONNEL

The U.S. Air Force now spends about $45,000,000 a year to maintain its 20 Pinetree stations in Canada while Canada spends about $28,000,000 a year on its 14.

The RCAF would have to find 5,000 personnel to man the 20 American radars. It is already bumping against its manpower ceiling of 51,000 and is committed to man the seven new stations—five on the Prairies and two in Central Canada—now under construction. These seven will require about 1,750 personnel.

7 CANDIDATES RUN FOR COUNCIL

List of candidates for the four aldermanic seats at stake in the Dec. 8 election grew to seven Wednesday afternoon.

Ald. Arthur Dowell, senior member of council with 10 years' experience, threw his hat into the ring again. Earlier he had indicated he would retire because of plans for an extended trip to Europe in the spring but offers of other aldermen to share his duties, if elected, during the absence had been "one of the deciding factors" in changing his mind.

Also putting her name into contention was Mrs. Sally Rogers, of the Victoria Ratepayers' Association. A housewife, she has made several unsuccessful attempts before.

Previously declared candidates are Ald. A. I. Curtis, apartment house operator Charles Nelles, Victoria Labor Council secretary-manager A. W. Toone, commercial fisherman Elgin Neish and real estate salesman Victor Williams.

Six Artists Share Music Program

By AUDREY JOHNSON

Six city artists shared the November program presented by Victoria Musical Art Society Wednesday night. The four featured musicians and their two accompanists provided the large audience at Holyrood House with an evening of contrasts and explorations.

Most significant was the realization that in Margery Vaughan and Rita Wallis, Victoria has an admirable duo piano team with first-rate concert potential.

Here was clean, controlled, authoritative playing, so well balanced and co-ordinated that most of the time the team sounded like one vitamin-enriched pianist.

In the Elgar "Enigma" variations, the virtuosic episodes were played with genuine "brio" and professional style, while at all times attention to musical detail, phrasing and the team's generally intelligent approach created a greatly satisfying listening experience.

CANADIAN WORK

Canadian music was represented in their final group with a pleasing, tasteful vignette, "Poeme Pastorale," by Caron-Legris.

And while on the subject of Canadian music, of two numbers played by Barry Moncur, clarinetist, "Album Leaf," a composition for clarinet and piano by Victoria musician Rodney Webster, provided considerable pleasure, being graceful and revealing a musical perceptiveness and interesting melodic line.

Mr. Moncur is a capable performer and though the tone he produces is not always as free and flexible as his fingering the display piece, Meister's Erwin Fantasia, was scintillating.

VICTORIA DIVORCES

Divorces were granted in B.C. Supreme Court this week to:

Edward Patton Fitzpatrick, 812 Hutchinson Avenue, Victoria, from Ruth Viola Fitzpatrick, 649 Agnes Street, Victoria, whom she married here in 1944.

Minnie Brooks, 41 East Poplar Avenue, San Mateo, Calif., from Sidney Brooks, 2460 Dalhousie Street, Oak Bay. They were married in Winnipeg in 1929.

Edward Walter Moir, 245 Simcoe Street, Victoria, from Betty Winifred Moir, 117 Clarence Street, Victoria. Married Victoria, 1935.

Joseph Frederick Kruk, 2169 Fair Street, Victoria, from Nolla Kruk, 3420 Persimmon Drive, Saanich. Married Prince Albert, Sask., 1942.

His incompetent accompanist was the composer's wife, Faith Webster.

FINE QUALITY

Mrs. Dillistone has a truly lovely vocal quality, the round, sweet tone being generally well placed. However, her singing is less effective than it ought to be because of a severely limited dynamic range and lack of projection at all levels.

Sensitively and imagination are implied but she has not yet acquired the means of allowing these qualities full flower. The famous "Samson and Delilah" aria was tepid; so also the "Carmen" Seguedilla and Hageman's "Do Not Go My Love." All this passionate music was totally devoid of dramatic concept.

With such an enchanting voice and pleasing personality Mrs. Dillistone should be encouraged to strive for the missing virtues.

She was most ably and sympathetically accompanied by Dorothy Gough.

Phil Lee's Two for the Show

AA (Odeon) Color B (For Rainy Days) A (Don't Miss) C (To put in time)

(A) "SCHOOL FOR SCOUNDRELS" (Odeon): Are you the type who opens the door for the dear old lady and winds up holding it for the next 100 to pass through?

Are you the type who can be dazzled by a girl's smile? But when you step forward to pursue matters further you discover too late that she is really smiling at some guy who is standing just behind you?

Then, my son, you need a full course in "Lifemanship" as expounded by English writer Stephen Potter. Potter's works can currently be seen at the Odeon under the title "School for Scoundrels."

As the headmaster of "The School of Lifemanship," Alastair Sim explains to the student body at the opening lecture. "The world is divided equally into two groups—the winners and the losers." He then proceeds to show them step by step "how to win with out actually cheating."

Patrons who enjoy their humor in subtle form should enjoy the many witticisms that abound in the film as bashful, always-loser Ian Carmichael enrolls in order to win the light of his life, Janette Scott, away from overbearing, always-winner Terry-Thomas.

Indeed, those who feel as though they are always one-down will feel a definite thrill as milquetoast Carmichael enters the school of "One-Upmanship" then proceeds to do well in the cunning school of "Gamesmanship" and, finally, in the school of "Woomanship" whose credo is "from living room to bedroom in three easy stages."

Or perhaps all are so sure of themselves these days that they don't feel in need of investing in a course of "Lifemanship."

At least they all look very sure to me.

Tibet Rocket Bases?

Inquest Set Tonight In Fireman's Death

DUNCAN—Inquest into the electrocution death of volunteer fireman Alan Campbell, 23, will be held here tonight at 7.30 in Hirst Funeral Chapel.

He was electrocuted about 6.45 p.m. Wednesday when he and three helpers leaned an aluminium ladder against a 6,000-volt power line in an effort to put out a routine chimney fire in a Chinatown apartment block.

Robert Lewis, a fellow fireman, was in hospital today suffering slight burns. His condition was not serious. Gordon and Gary Griffiths, received only slight shocks.

Gordon Griffiths found holes burned in the soles of both shoes by the electrical charge which apparently passed through him without other damage.

FATHER KILLED
A single man, he lived above the firehall.

His father was killed in a hunting accident in interior B.C. five years ago.

Survivors include a stepfather and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Desmond Agnew in Clinton, and a brother, Colin, in Vancouver.

Since coming to Duncan last February Campbell had been active in community affairs. In addition to being a volunteer fireman he was a member of the DeMolay group.

Funeral arrangements are pending.

SWIFTSURE CHALLENGER IN EMBRYO

The annual Swiftsure Yacht Racing Classic, long dominated by Seattle and Vancouver speedsters, is likely to get a real challenge in 1961 from two all-Victoria boats now building at Canoe Cove Marina, near Sidney.

The 30-foot racing cruisers place 6,150 pounds, will be yawl rigged with aluminum mast, stainless steel rigging and fittings, and will compete as a "B" Class boat with a 25.8 rating.

One distinctive feature of the class is the little ocean racers will be trim tabs which operate almost like a second rudder, to improve sailing conditions going to windward.

Target date for delivery of the two yawls—at $13,800 each—is mid-March, in time for tune-ups and trials before the Swiftsure in May.

STUDY REST HOME PLAN FOR KING'S DAUGHTERS

DUNCAN—A suggestion that King's Daughters' Hospital be operated as a convalescent hospital when the new Duncan hospital is built will be investigated by the district hospital planning committee.

The proposal, that the present hospital be operated as a nursing home type unit for residents of the Cowichan district on a non-profit basis will be thoroughly studied. Named as a committee to look into the suggestion were: N. R. Gray, W. A. Kirby, V. R. Dougan, A. Larking and Mrs. E. Mould.

ACROSS THE PROVINCE

New Demands For WCB Probe

(Compiled From CP)
VANCOUVER—A new call for a Royal Commission on the Workmen's Compensation Board was made Wednesday.

Two labor groups renewed their request for an inquiry following the board's refusal to pay a posthumous silicosis pension for Louis Battaglia.

The board ruled that Battaglia did not apply for a pension within time limits set by the Compensation Act.

Paddy Neale, secretary of the Vancouver Labor Council, said the board's handling of the case proves the necessity of a royal commission.

"In the last four years it's got to the point where there is nothing but lawyers at compensation headquarters," he said. "The board is all powerful and can ignore time limits. It's taking every opportunity to get from under its responsibility."

Harvey Murphy, western president of the Mine, Mill Union, which helped Battaglia fight for a pension, said a royal commission would bring everything out in the open.

"It's time for a thorough overhaul of the board's procedures," he said.

Thomas Berger, the lawyer who handled Battaglia's case, said the board's ruling is utterly fantastic.

He said it is intolerable that the board should use the time limit issue when years have been spent proving Battaglia's right to a pension.

"The commissioners are really small men and this confirms it better than anything could," he said.

TRICKED MAGISTRATE

VANCOUVER—A man who obtained $20 from a Trail magistrate by claiming to be a friend of another magistrate was sentenced to nine months Wednesday on four false pretences charges.

William McLeod, 38, pleaded guilty of obtaining $20 from a grocery store at Trail with a cheque endorsed by Magistrate Parker Williams.

Magistrate Williams endorsed the cheque after McLeod said that his car had broken down and that he was a friend of Magistrate Lionel Beevor-Potts in Nanaimo.

NEW EQUIPMENT ON SHOW

'Open House' At Fire Hall

CHEMAINUS — Chemainus Volunteer Fire Department will hold "open house" Saturday to show off the new $36,593 addition to the firehall.

Fire Chief Ray Millard and members of his department have extended a cordial invitation to the general public to visit the hall between the hours of 2 and 9 p.m.

The recently completed firehall addition provides much needed training quarters plus equipment and recreational facilities for the growing department. Included in the new building are two main-level garages, a workshop, training room, recreation hall, kitchen and modern showers and change rooms.

Visitors, in addition to touring the firehall will also have the opportunity to inspect all equipment. On public display for the first time will be the new $7,000 salvage and rescue truck.

One of the best equipped volunteer brigades in B.C., the Chemainus department also operates two fire trucks, a trailer pump unit and an ambulance.

Refreshments will be served visitors.

DUNCAN COURT

DUNCAN — Donald Arthur Irwin, 22, of Ganges, was found guilty in police court here Tuesday of having increased his speed before an overtaking car had completely passed him.

The charge had been laid by Kenneth Gogo, Nanaimo real estate salesman, who said that while driving on the Malahat Oct. 9 he had tried three times to pass a car, only to have it increase speed as he came alongside.

Magistrate A. C. Sutton fined Irwin $10 and $5.50 costs, adding that "in my opinion you were peevish and played the devil a little bit."

DUNCAN — Percy Lewis Chapman, 63, of Duncan, was fined $10 and costs for failing to yield the right of way to a car approaching from his right on Trans-Canada Highway.

The charge arose out of a minor accident at the intersection of the highway and York Road.

SHAWNIGAN LAKE — Theophile Paul Danis, Victoria, was fined $25 in police court here by P. G. Cudlip, justice of the peace, for failing to tag a deer, and had his tag confiscated.

$1,000 From Fair
BRENTWOOD — Net proceeds at the annual Community Fair here this year exceeded $1,000, it was announced at the final meeting of the fair committee.

Each of the six organizations co-operating will receive $70 as its share of proceeds from the gate and games.

Prizewinners were Mrs. T. Brock, Mrs. D. G. Beaumont, Mrs. Cuthbert Brown, Miss Isabel Howard, and Ken Thomson.

PLANNING NOW FOR SANTA'S 1961 VISIT

DUNCAN — Merchants here who feel they missed a good shopping promotion by not having Santa Claus arrive on the scene in person this year will make sure the jolly man with the whiskers visits Duncan in 1961.

Retail merchants' division of the Chamber of Commerce agreed Wednesday that all stores should get together next year to bring Santa to town.

Noting that Nanaimo had brought him in by seaplane this year, chamber president Dave Williams suggested he should be escorted to Duncan next year on a logging truck "to tie in with our local industry."

Late pre-Christmas shopping hours, to 9 p.m., on Dec. 21, 22 and 23 were approved.

Bee-Venom Cure Gets Quizzing

LONDON (Reuters)—A group of British reporters Wednesday walked out on a Canadian doctor at a press conference called to announce a project for treating sufferers from arthritis, skin diseases and nervous disorders by bee-venom therapy in Canada.

LEGION MEMORIAL SERVICE SET

A memorial service to commemorate the 35th anniversary of the Canadian Legion and to honor the late Sir Percy Lake, first president of the Legion and a member of the Pro Patria branch here, will be held Friday.

Veterans wishing to attend will assemble at the Britannia branch at 11.45 a.m., and will proceed to Royal Oak Cemetery for a noon-hour service to be conducted by Archbishop Harold E. Sexton.

A wreath will be laid by Alex Walker, past Dominion president.

Fund Picks Governor As Patron

Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes has been named chief patron of the Jim Peters Fund which provides Christmas hampers and toys to needy families of men in prison.

The fund, established in honor of the English marathon runner who electrified the spectators at the 1954 British Empire Games in Vancouver, has appealed again for donations to carry on its work this Christmas.

Contributions can be sent to Alex Johnson, 1076 West 41st Avenue, Vancouver. Hampers will be provided to families on the Mainland and in Victoria, Duncan and Nanaimo.

Children of imprisoned parents "are so often punished by an indifferent society for the sins of their fathers," said Mr. Johnson.

"I personally shall never forget a premature baby wrapped in newspaper, its mother ill and destitute and its father in prison through inability to pay a fine.

"Through your contributions, this type of thing is rectified when brought to our attention and the miracle of Christmas has real meaning for these unfortunate."

The Amharic language, widespread in Ethiopia, has a 1,700-year-old alphabet of 247 characters, each representing a syllable.

Dr. Joseph Saine, director of a Montreal clinic, has decided to set up clinics throughout Canada where bee-venom therapy developed by Englishwoman Mrs. Julia Owen will be given.

The walkout took place when Saine was being questioned about the constituent parts of bee-venom.

When he said that one constituent was "formalic acid," a reporter insisted that no such acid existed.

"DISGRACEFUL" Another reporter suggested that it was proposed to put into patients something which so far had resisted analysis and added "I think that is disgraceful."

Several reporters asserted that it was not known what the bee-venom contained and they walked out.

Later Dr. Saine said: "I am not an expert on the analysis of bee-venom nor am I a specialist in chemistry. I have read that formalic acid is a constituent of bee-venom but don't take that as dogma."

"Maybe it is another acid," he added, saying it was more important to know what the bee venom did than what it was.

$3,000,000 PROJECT Dr. Saine also was closely questioned on how he would raise the equivalent of $3,000,000, which a printed statement at the conference said he was expecting to invest in the project in Canada.

He said he would have no difficulty in raising that money or even more, from his own resources and those of friends.

Asked how much he had paid for sharing Mrs. Owen's knowledge, he replied: "I paid just $1."

Dr. Saine said he had seen dozens of Mrs. Owen's case histories and patients. Every patient had either been cured or much improved.

The printed statement said the first two clinics in Canada would be opened in Montreal and Toronto and others would follow.

Mrs. Owen attended the press conference.

POLICE ADVICE?

Judge Questions Court 'Cop-Outs'

CALGARY (CP)—A third prisoner in two days told the appellate division of supreme court Tuesday he had "copped out"—pleaded guilty—because he had been told his sentence would be lighter.

John A. Channing, charged with possession of stolen goods, said in a letter to Chief Justice Clinton Ford that Medicine Hat police had told him a city magistrate would let him off more easily if he pleaded guilty.

It was the third such appeal heard by the court since sittings began Monday morning.

"I wonder," said Chief Justice Ford, "why so many prisoners are saying they were promised specific terms in jail before they went to court. This is getting under my skin. Is it going around among the criminals that this is a good excuse, or are some of the complaints true? I sincerely hope the practice isn't general. I hope our officers aren't doing this."

"I realize that this charge has been levelled before, but it is heard awfully frequently this sitting."

Channing's appeal against a three-year sentence was unanimously dismissed.

ARM CANAL BARGES, SAYS BRITISH GROUP

LONDON (Reuters)—A British organization Wednesday proposed that squadrons of barges carrying Polaris missiles be deployed throughout the canal systems of Britain and Western Europe as a "mobile deterrent."

The suggestion came from the Inland Waterways Association—a British organization campaigning for the preservation of the country's canal system.

GIRL CONFESSED

Light Jail Sentence In Theft for Mother

HAMILTON, Ont. (UPI)—Darlene Burns, 21, an attractive former bank teller, was sentenced to nine months definite and six months indefinite in reformatory to-day for stealing nearly $8,000 from a Hamilton bank.

Miss Burns had pleaded guilty last week to the thefts. She said she had used the money to pay hospital bills for her ailing mother, who walks with the aid of two canes.

Magistrate Walter Tuchtie said today that since the accused was remanded in custody last week a further $3,600 has been reported missing from the bank.

"This case has given me more concern than any in my experience on the bench," he said.

He said there was no hope of restitution.

The girl admitted stealing the money by juggling about 25 fictitious bank accounts during the past three years. She confessed the theft before auditors discovered it.

The City of Prince George has been awarded 17 chairs and $35.50 for administering the law. The payoff comes from the provincial government. The items were confiscated in the case of Bernard Francis Cunningham, convicted May 9 of keeping a common gaming house.

A special cabinet order says that Prince George shall have the "common chairs" back and the money as payment for "the expense of administering in that area the law under which the aforesaid forfeiture was made."

Value of shipments from Canadian cement-manufacturing firms in 1959, at $98,778,000, was 1.2 per cent lower than the record in 1958.

Close Race Seen In N.Z. Election

WELLINGTON (AP)—New Zealand will decide in a general election Saturday whether to retain its Labor government.

The Labor party has held office for the last three years with the narrowest possible working majority.

In a parliament of 80 seats, Labor has 41 and its only effective opposition, the private enterprise National party, has 39. Betting is that the poll again will be close.

New Zealand had 14 years of socialism from 1933 to 1949. Then it had a National government for eight years. At the last triennial election in 1957, Labor scraped home again.

New Zealand's Labor party is similar to the British socialists. In fact, it had its beginning among immigrants from the British Isles.

NASH HEADS LABOR Heading Labor's bid for return to office Saturday is a remarkable old man, Prime Minister Walter Nash. Now in his 79th year, Nash has made his mark as a world statesman. A native of Kidderminster, England, Nash emigrated to New Zealand in 1909 and plunged straight into socialist politics. He has been in parliament 31 years.

Nash is opposed by the up-and-coming 56-year-old farmer and politician Keith J. Holyoake, leader of the National party. ### MIRACLE ESCAPE

90-Ft. Wave Engulfs Island

LIMA, PERU (AP)—Five fertilizer workers on the island of Lobos de Afuera narrowly escaped death from a tidal wave that surged across the northern Peruvian coast Sunday, killing four mainland residents.

The five arrived Wednesday at Pimental, a mainland port town 10 miles from Lobos de Afuera. They had been feared dead.

The survivors said they were about to eat dinner Sunday when they heard a loud noise. They scrambled into a rowboat just before the island was submerged by the big wave, believed to have been 90 feet high.

They rode out the tidal wave and rowed a full day and night before reaching an isolated part of the coast.

There had been no word on the fate of 15 persons who set out from Pimental aboard a fishing boat just 20 minutes before the wave struck.

'What Have I Done to Deserve This?'

By MICHAEL GOLDSMITH
LEOPOLDVILLE (AP)—A Congolese survivor of Monday's battle at the Ghana Embassy said today his legs were shattered by repeated bursts of UN machine-gun fire while he lay on the ground holding his dying commander.

The commander, Lt. Col. Joseph Kokolo, was killed while demanding to speak to Ghana charge d'affaires Nathaniel Welbeck, who left the Congo after the battle, UN Tunisian troops and riot police from Ghana guarded the embassy. Congolese immigration officer Henri Ngambo and an armed soldier, Pte. Andre Lantrola, accompanied Kokolo on his ill-fated attempt to enter the residence. About 300 Congolese troops, supported by armored cars and heavy machine-guns, were waiting in the darkness for Kokolo and his escort to return.

"As we came up to the door we were met by a Tunisian lieutenant," Ngambo told reporters from his hospital bed. "He said the colonel could come in as he was unarmed, but Lantrola and I would have to wait outside. Kokolo insisted on bringing in his escort, and there was an argument."

"Suddenly I heard the lieutenant scream out an order three times. A volley of machine-gun fire hit the colonel across the chest and he fell moaning to the ground."

"I lay down and put his head on my arm. Blood was pouring from his mouth. I heard him say: 'I am dying. Call our soldiers. Tell them they killed me. Tell them to attack.' He was groaning and I knew he would soon be dead."

"Then I saw a Ghanaian policeman aiming at us from the door. I heard machine-gun fire and felt a terrible pain in my legs. I felt another volley strike the colonel's body lying on top of me. My legs were hit by four more bursts. Then they stopped firing. They

"Lantrola was a little way behind us. Both his arms were hit while his rifle was still slung over his shoulder. He never had a chance to fire back."

"Then everybody started shooting from both sides. Lantrola and I crawled through the darkness into a kind of cellar where we hid for the rest of the night."

"When dawn broke, some Ghanaians found us and started shooting at the wall just above our heads. I offered them all the money I had if they would not kill me. I asked for some water and one of them brought me some, but the other ordered him not to give it to me."

"Then an ambulance came and took us away."

The official Tunisian account of the shooting claimed that Ngambo shouted the first order to fire, "resulting in several volleys from the Congolese side" which wounded two Tunisian officers. Only then did the UN Tunisian and Ghanaian troops return the fire, the official report said.

Ngambo spoke with difficulty. He is suffering from shock and had been given pain-killing drugs.

He said doctors extracted 24 bullets from his legs.

"I'll never be able to use my legs again," he said with tears in his eyes. "What have I done to deserve this?"

Germany: Exclusive Interview

(Bruce Hutchison, Editor of the Times, returned last weekend from a six-week fact-finding visit to the United Kingdom and Europe. Today he begins a series of articles on the effect that trade and economic policies now in the making there will have on Canada.)

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

In a remarkably candid statement to this newspaper at Bonn, Dr. Ludwig Erhard, vice-chancellor and minister for economic affairs of the German Federal Republic, announced a series of high policies vitally affecting the whole clouded future of Canada. (Full text on Page 4.)

The economic genius who made a ruined West Germany the most prosperous nation of the free world declared first, that the principles of the thriving European Common Market should be extended, by stages to include Canada and the United States in a broad Atlantic trading community.

Second, bluntly entering the debate which has strained relations between the British and Canadian governments, Dr. Erhard argued that Britain's entry into the Common Market of Europe was an "absolute necessity," though Canada officially regards it with grave alarm. The union of Britain and the Common Market, Dr. Erhard said, should be the stepping stone toward a wider economic association embracing North America.

Third, to encourage Britain's membership in the Common Market, Dr. Erhard offered on Germany's part a completely new deal which should go a long way toward removing Canada's fears, as recently expressed by Finance Minister Donald Fleming.

Germany, Dr. Erhard said, would not expect Britain to abandon the Imperial Preference system if it joined the Common Market. The tariff preference, regarded by Ottawa as extremely valuable to Canada in the British market, could be retained by "special arrangements" covering in particular Canada's massive wheat sales to Britain. The real obstacle to the union of Europe's Six and Seven, Dr. Erhard emphasized, was not technical but represented only a lack of "political will."

At Odds Over Policy With France

This announcement removed, so far as Germany is concerned, one of the chief objections to Britain's membership in the Common Market. But of course Dr. Erhard can speak for Germany alone and not for France. Up to now the government of General de Gaulle, obsessed by its vision of French power, has insisted that if Britain joins the Common Market it must surrender the entire Preference system and accept the common, relatively high external tariff of the European partners. The schism of policy between Germany and France on this issue—and there are other disputes as well—is clear in Dr. Erhard's statement.

Fourth, Dr. Erhard's government is itself embarrassed by Germany's huge surpluses in foreign trade and its excessive accumulation of gold reserves that have dangerously distorted the Free World economy.

To cure this particular aspect of a general distortion Dr. Erhard promised that Germany would soon begin a large export of capital to under-developed countries overseas. (Such promises have been made vaguely by the German government in the past, but as a highly-placed British statesman remarked to this reporter in London, "nothing ever happens.") The actual results of Dr. Erhard's specific pledge will be anxiously awaited throughout the world.

Fifth, Dr. Erhard discounted as impractical the concept of a new political confederation in Europe growing out of the Common Market. He predicted,

'U.K. MAKING MORE JOBS FOR CANADA'

SARNIA, Ont. (CP)—The United Kingdom, by importing more manufactured goods from Canada, appears to be providing more jobs for Canadians than Canada is providing for Great Britain, Sarnia Chamber of Commerce was told Wednesday night.

J. R. W. Wilby, principal trade commissioner for the U.K. in Canada, told the chamber that Canadian exports to Britain for the first nine months this year totalled $571,000,000, up more than 20 per cent from 1959.

If present forecasts come true, he said, Canada will sell twice as much to Britain this year as she will buy from Britain.

GREY CUP FEVER MOUNTS AT VANCOUVER

Soggy Field, Cloudy Skies Promised for Grid Battle

VANCOUVER (CP)—Heavy rain continued to hamper Ottawa Rough Riders today as they prepared for Saturday's Grey Cup Football final against Edmonton Eskimos.

Coach Frank Clair and the Rough Riders arrived here Tuesday but have been unable to hold an outdoor practice of any length due to an almost steady rain.

It was raining again today and it was expected the Rough Riders would be forced to practice at the University of British Columbia's memorial gymnasium.

The rain was presenting a problem to Empire Stadium manager Dave Dauphinee. "We expected the field to be soft but well-conditioned. However, with all this rain it's hard to say how the field will be Saturday," said a worried Dauphinee.

A canvas tarpaulin has been protecting the stadium turf since Tuesday and, if the rain persists, will not be removed until game time at 1.30 Saturday.

Meanwhile, excitement continued to mount in the city as scores of out-of-town fans arrived by plane and train.

Major portion of the visitors will arrive here Friday with 13 extra plane flights and six extra trains reaching Vancouver.

The game interest was noticeable at 6 a.m. today when fans started lining up for 1,300 Grey Cup tickets.

A long-range weather forecast for Saturday predicts skies will be overcast and temperatures in the high forties.

Congolese Block UN Vehicles

LEOPOLDVILLE (CP)

—Angry Congolese troops erected roadblocks and seized between 50 and 60 United Nations vehicles today as tension in this Congo capital mounted toward the explosion point.

All UN forces were on the alert, Canadian signalmen and other UN troops were under orders to shoot to kill if attacked by unruly Congolese. UN soldiers dug in around the residences of senior UN officials.

They feared reprisals for Monday night's battle in which several Congolese soldiers were killed, including Lt. Col. Joseph Kokolo.

The Congolese roamed the streets and set up roadblocks in a residential area where many UN personnel have houses. UN staff were advised to spend the night in the city.

MALAYS ON GUARD

The 150 Canadians stationed here were ordered to remain in their school-quarters. They doubled the guard around the school and were reinforced by a platoon of tough Malaysian jungle fighters.

The school buildings were described by Col. Paul Smith of Edmonton and Vancouver, the signal unit commander, as "easy to defend and difficult to take."

Orders to shoot to kill are to take effect only in Congolese soldiers attack the school and only when given by an officer.

Col. Smith said there is a possibility the defence setup may have to be maintained for a week. A company of Tunisians may later be brought in to defend the perimeter of the school grounds.

Canadians are allowed to leave the school only for shift changes at the UN headquarters message centre, located a half mile away.

Canadians continue to wear side arms at all times, with officers and NCOs equipped with automatic pistols and other ranks with sub-machine guns. From the time they arrived here in August until

'No Decision While Talks On'

(Times News Services)

OTTAWA (UPI)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker said today Canada will not consider arming with nuclear weapons until it has joint control of the warheads with the United States.

He also said Canada will make no decision on arming with nuclear weapons as long as disarmament talks proceeded.

"We know of no greater and trying question than that of nuclear weapons," he told a Canadian Club luncheon.

Canada is installing two Bomarc B squadrons, one at North Bay, Ont., and the other near La Macaza, Que., expected to go into operation late next year. Nuclear warheads would be required for maximum effectiveness of the anti-aircraft missiles.

"We shall not, whatever the situation, consider nuclear weapons until such time as we have an equality and joint control of them," he said.

CHANGES NEEDED

Such joint control would require changes in U.S. legislation as the nuclear warheads would come from the United States.

Diefenbaker also called for an early heads-of-state meeting of the 15-member North Atlantic Treaty Organization. He said economic arrangements needed to be made within the body to see that some members were not weakened by the actions of others.

Although he did not say so,

Dag Invites Pearson To UN Talk

OTTAWA (CP)—Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold of the United Nations has invited Lester B. Pearson and two other past presidents of the UN General Assembly to consult with him on organization of the world body's secretariat at the under-secretary level, it was announced today.

Mr. Pearson, national leader of Canada's Liberal party and former external affairs minister who was president of the assembly's seventh session in 1952-53, will go to New York for a three-day meeting opening Friday at UN headquarters.

Also called in by Mr. Hammarskjold for consultations were Prince Wan Waitthayakon of Thailand, president of the UN's 11th session, and Dr. Victor Belaunde of Peru, who presided at the 14th session.

Mr. Pearson's office said the assignment will require that he spend two or three week-ends and part of the Christmas holidays in New York.

Uranium Industry Expands Research

TORONTO (CP)—A $1,250,000 research program aimed at reviving Canada's sagging uranium industry was announced today.

The program—bankrolled by six major uranium companies—will be headed by Frank Forward, University of British Columbia metallurgist who developed the ammonia leach process for recovery of nickel.

"This is a united effort by the mines to keep our industry alive," said Gilbert LaBine, founder of Gunat Mines.

Canada's uranium industry is facing the prospect of complete collapse by 1965 because of world over-production and the end of United States contracts.

Mr. LaBine said six mines have organized to set up the Canadian Uranium Research Foundation to finance the program.

Such a co-operative move, he said, is a "first" in the country's mining industry.

Mines involved are Gunat, Rio Algom, Denison, Faraday, Bicroft and the government-owned Eldorado.

The foundation will spend $250,000 a year, Mr. LaBine said, with $1,250,000 already pledged by the mines.

Today's Traffic Trouble Tip

Know All Light Signals

By AB KENT

There is a good deal more to know about red and green traffic lights than the simple fact that one stops on a red and proceeds on a green.

Full knowledge of all the functions of the lights, and of the driver's responsibilities in all cases, will make city driving easier and the pedestrian both safer and less of a nuisance.

For example, a flashing red light means stop and proceed when it is safe, and a flashing green light—rarely encountered—means approach, but in a manner that allows a stop if necessary before reaching the light or crosswalk in the vicinity, and at all times yield to any pedestrian.

And incidentally, for the benefit of A. C. Baker, 2420 San Carlos, a flashing amber light at an intersection means a hazardous point; proceed with caution, yielding to pedestrians.

The motorist facing the red flashing light at a cross road where two types of signal are combined—red applying to Lansdowne, amber to Cadboro Bay Road, for example—simply must wait until it is safe to start.

Dealing with the ordinary two-phase traffic signal such as the one at Pandora and Fernwood, with its sequence of green, amber and red lights, movement on the red light is permissible if a right turn is intended and the driver first:

Approaches the intersection in the lane nearest the curb, comes to a full stop, signals his turn, gives way to pedestrians and other traffic and in no way interferes with other traffic—and provided there is no posted prohibition or other instruction.

For instance, at certain peak traffic periods police erect temporary signs forbidding right turns at such points as Douglas at View and Fort.

This same general topic will be continued in Friday's column.

HERE AND THERE ...

With NORMAN CRIBBENS

"Is there any water polo in Victoria?" asks William J. Samuel, now visiting here from Portland. Yes, there is. This boisterous game is played every Sunday afternoon in the swimming pool at the Canadian Services College, Royal Roads, and spectators are welcome.

There are four local teams which compete in these games, those of the Royal Canadian Navy, the Canadian Services College, Victoria Amateur Swimming Club and Victoria College.

Congratulations pending: George Chapman of 1588 North Dairy Road will be 85 on Christmas Eve. His wife will be 82 on New Year's Eve.

They have been married 60 years and have 10 grandchildren and 26 great grandchildren.

A Victoria dentist hastened to agree with Toronto publisher Jack McClelland that a successful dentist would be unlikely to write a successful novel—even about a dentist.

"What do we see to write about?" he sighed. "Most of the time we are like old moles peering into holes!"

Philip Holmes, as president of Victoria Real Estate Board, takes an unholy delight in slandering Vancouver. "I wish they'd stop sending us their foul weather," he told a local gathering, and then, a few minutes later, said:

"Mr. cannot be with us tonight. He went to Vancouver and was stricken down by that poisonous flu they breed over there."

Searchers Scour Northern Island For Fishermen

A land and water search in the Cormorant Island area on the northeast coast of Vancouver Island was underway today for two persons missing from a fishboat washed up on the island Wednesday.

RCMP chartered a local plane for search of the area early today but the hunt was discontinued when nothing was found.

The boat was apparently caught in gales which have been prevalent since Monday. Names of the fishermen have not been released pending notification of next-of-kin.

Full Inquiry on Education Finance 'Urgent Need' B.C. Government Told

The B.C. Chamber of Commerce today asked the provincial government for a Royal Commission on education financing.

It called the inquiry "an urgent need." The businessmen's group, in its annual brief to the cabinet, said it will support all improvements recommended in the Chant Royal Commission, and wants a follow-up inquiry on financing.

The brief also urged:

- New labor legislation at the Jan. 26 session of the legislature;
- Conditional export of hydro power, and control of new hydro projects by the B.C. Energy Board;
- Reduction in income and business taxes;
- Grants in lieu of taxes for provincial buildings within municipal areas;
- A federal-provincial conference to discuss cost-sharing in a 10-year highways program;
- All possible action to stimulate northern development, particularly in co-operation with Alaska.

THIRTY DELEGATES
Chamber president Maurice P. Finnerty of Penticton headed a 30-man delegation which met the cabinet this morning.

The Chant Report on education is now in the hands of the government, but has not yet been made public. Release is expected early next year.

However, the chamber said it will support "desirable changes and refinements" that it recommends.

The finance inquiry, the brief said, should look into how money is raised and spent on education.

"There is an urgent need for the establishment of a commission to enquire into education costs and financing and to determine a fair division of financial responsibility between provincial and municipal authorities," it said.

GREAT CONCERN
The brief added, "The adverse financial position of municipalities continues to be of widespread concern."

Labor legislation asked in the brief is much the same as requests made last year.

Main point is request for cabinet power to call in arbitration for any dispute which would imperil the health or safety of the general public.

Other amendments to the Labor Relations Act desired include: Ban on closed shop; abolition of conciliation boards with government mediation condition: "So long as it was only for a period satisfactory to B.C."

As a renewable resource, power is ideal for export, the brief added.

All new power projects should be screened and approved by the B.C. Energy Board, it said.

Of particular interest to Victoria is the recommendation that the B.C. government pay grants to municipalities where it maintains provincial buildings.

Mayor Percy Scurrell has said such taxes on the Legislative Buildings would be worth from $250,000 to $300,000 a year to Victoria.

The 10-year highway program, also presented last year, includes such projects as extensions of the Vancouver Island highway north to Port Hardy and paving of the Alberni-Tofino Road.

Compromise Made At Eleventh Hour In Arena Wrangle

Fireworks Fizzle Out After Night Meeting

An all-out battle in city council today over the Memorial Arena controversy was averted by an 11th-hour meeting between the arena commission and five aldermen.

The 3½-hour "no holds barred" meeting Wednesday night produced a compromise agreement under which:

1. A replacement for arena manager Joe Dukowski will be sought as soon as possible within the three months that his resignation takes effect;
2. Assurances were given that fair consideration will be given to any applications for re-employment by the six employees who resigned last month, touching off the controversy;
3. Commission member Courtney Haddock will withhold his threatened resignation;
4. Ald. Hugh Ramsay, council's watchdog on arena affairs, will withhold a request for a public hearing.

The sudden meeting was called by commission chairman F. G. Mulliner. It started at 8:30 p.m. in the commission's board room and did not break up until almost midnight. Besides the commission, Ald. Ramsay, Ald. Arthur Dowell, Ald. Geoffrey Edgewood, Ald. M. H. Mooney and Ald. Elmer McEwen were present.

NEWEST CONTESTANT for Saanich council in Dec. 8 election will be R. W. Chard, 40, a lawyer, who lives at 3774 Hobbs. He was an unsuccessful candidate in 1957. Mr. Chard, in law practice here 11 years, is a graduate of the University of Alberta. He makes the seventh candidate seeking one of the three vacant council seats.

OPEN AND SHUT
The controversy was expected to explode into a showdown at today's city council meeting between factions demanding a public hearing into the resignations and those opposing an open inquiry.

Debate was expected to centre on whether or not the affidavits filed by the six employees—office manager Kenneth Noakes, office secretary Mrs. Mary Jones, chief cashier Mrs. Patricia Read, maintenance worker Robert Harris and cashiers Mrs. Patricia Crust and Mrs. Dorothy Buie—and a statement by manager Joe Dukowski should be made public.

Both sides gave their versions of so far unrevealed events at a closed hearing by the commission last week. Mr. Dukowski wrote his resignation the following day.

Fireworks were expected when Mr. Haddock's threatened resignation was to reach council. Instead, it appeared this morning that the issue would die quietly.

RESIGNATION WITHHELD
"I'm withholding my resignation," Mr. Haddock said today. "I've been assured by the commission will look after the interests of the six employees and that's all I wanted in the first place."

"We reached a compromise on everything in general and I think the situation at the arena will be completely cleaned up."

Ald. Ramsay said the Wednesday night meeting "saw no holds barred and many accusations thrown both ways. I feel we really got to the core of the issue."

"We wound up with what appears to be a unanimous decision on the future of the arena. I feel now a public hearing would accomplish little. It would just be reshaping dirty linen which would not be in the taxpayers' interests because we don't want to get into a chaotic situation where they would have to add to the $40,000-odd the ratepayers chip in every year to keep the arena going."

He said with assurances that the six employees would be given fair consideration if they want their jobs back and that Mr. Dukowski would be replaced as soon as possible within the three months:

"The situation seems to be in the process of being cleaned up and so I will not ask for a public hearing. But if the agreed arrangements are not carried out I foresee more than one resignation from the commission."

CONFIDENCE
As a result of the understanding reached, Ald. Ramsay said he would support a motion of confidence in the commission "with the qualifications I have mentioned."

Mayor Percy Scurrell, who was not at the arena meeting, said he felt the compromise arrangement was the wisest course to follow.

Mayor Scurrell said he did not believe that any "useful result would come from a public inquiry" after having read the affidavits and Mr. Dukowski's statement.

"There is no suggestion of any shortage as far as money is concerned as the books have been audited and found in first-class condition."

UNDER PRESSURE
"The disagreements (between Mr. Dukowski and his staff) were an accumulation which had grown up ever since the manager took on the management of the hockey club. Everyone was working under pressure and it grew and grew. There is no doubt about it, the manager made mistakes and he has been reprimanded by the commission for those mistakes."

"On the other hand, the arena is one of possibly two or three in Canada which has consistently made a profit. During 1959-60, the profit was $57,810 and the average profit during the past 10 years has been $37,244. This would indicate good management."

Cook Street Scene Of Two Accidents

Two accidents on Cook Street Wednesday night sent two motorists and a pedestrian to St. Joseph's Hospital with head and leg injuries.

Mrs. Edna Armstrong, 40, of 581 Whiteside, was in a crosswalk at View when she was in collision with a car driven by John Scott Arnell, 1497 Myrtle, resulting in hip and leg injuries.

Roberta Bevis, 58, of 402 Chester, a passenger in a car driven by her husband William, 61, was treated for forehead cuts, and her husband for forehead cuts and neck injury after their car was in collision with two other autos at Balmoral.

Police Arrest Six On Theft Charges

Six overnight arrests—including a young woman—brought to nine the number of people charged by Greater Victoria police forces in a drive against burglaries and thefts that began to mushroom Tuesday.

The RCMP, city and Saanich police expect to make further arrests or at least add to the growing list of charges, one of which includes goods of more than $1,000 value, another referring to tools and cash worth around $700.

In city police court today Patricia Joseph and Frederick James Morry of Victoria pleaded guilty to breaking, entering and theft of a number of cigarettes at Ma's Cafe, 2251 Government early this morning.

Morry's brother, Ronald, facing the same charge, pleaded not guilty and bail for him was set at $2,000.

PROBATION
All will reappear for disposition Tuesday, when a probation report for the woman is expected to be ready.

Four men, two previously charged in Saanich police court, elected trial by judge and jury when they were charged in Colwood-RCMP court today with breaking and entering and attempted theft at a Malahat service station.

They are Donald Nelson, and Barry Jackson, of Victoria; Robert Borgal, no fixed address; and Albert Jenik of Vancouver.

Jenik was charged previously with thefts and possession of house-breaking tools in Vancouver.

This afternoon, at Saanich police court regular sitting, one additional man was to be charged with theft of tools from a store and equipment rental place and with possession of plumbing fittings from a construction site at University of Victoria.

A policeman said Wednesday charges are expected to number in the dozens before the current clean-up is over.

City police reported this burglary as the latest of a series of thefts reported Wednesday, in which goods and cash of a total value exceeding $220 were taken.

A $75 radio was stolen from the room of George Burkmar, 615 Courtney and steer horns valued at $45 were taken from the Roundup Grill, Quadra St.

A car radio was stolen from an auto owned by Mrs. Beverly Tiller, 903 North Park, when it was parked overnight Tuesday in front of her home.

Deep Cove Man Enters Contest For Trustee

Lewis Harvey, Deep Cove, will contest election for school trustee in the unorganized area of School District No. 63.

His nomination was sponsored by Len Wadams of the North Sidney Property Owners' Association and Capt. M. D. A. Darling, of the Deep Cove Property Owners' Association.

Mr. Harvey, who is a former vice-president of the Retail Merchants of Canada and a former president of the Retail Merchants of Saskatchewan, retired at Deep Cove eight years ago.

He was a hardware merchant and wholesaler in Assiniboia, Sask., before coming to Vancouver Island.

Victoria Jaycees, seven-strong, who will be on bicycles in the Grey Cup parade in Vancouver Saturday, want umbrellas.

The English type—black, furred handle.

It's part of an approach to make Victoria look the way it is—wet, and perhaps English.

Persons who wish to volunteer umbrellas should contact Cam Jamieson at EV 6-3377 during 8 to 5 office hours.

A province-wide civil defence exercise will be carried out Jan. 5 and 6 to test communications under the new zone set-up. It was learned today.

The province is broken down for CD purposes into six zones with two or more areas each, comprising target areas and mutual aid areas.

It will be strictly a telephone, teletype and wireless exercise, in which army personnel, who handle theoretical re-entry problems in the event of a nuclear disaster, will participate.

Final examinations of the Institute of Chartered Accountants of Quebec, were passed this week by a Victoria man, E. Raphael Jackson, 28, son of W. P. Jackson of 14 Boyd Street. He was a student at St. Louis College and articulated with Ismay, Bolton and Dunn in Victoria.

Saturday night public observation periods at the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory on Little Saanich Mountain will be discontinued after this Saturday.

They will start again in early April, officials said.

Eighteen-year-old Charles Edward White, HMCS Naden, was stopped by police carrying beer along the highway and in Colwood RCMP court Wednesday he pleaded guilty to being a minor in possession of liquor.

Magistrate A. I. Thomas fined him $50 and $5 costs.

The local Canadian Scottish Regiment Cadet Corps has won the Goulay trophy for being the regiment's most proficient cadet corps on Vancouver Island.

The unit was presented with the trophy at a ceremony in the Bay Street Armory, Wednesday. The presentation was made by ex-Sgt. Maj. James Goulay, after whom the trophy is named.

At the same time the corps received a grant from the Lord Strathcona Trust Fund after being placed fourth out of 40 cadet corps in the province.

First annual meeting of the Society for the Preservation and Maintenance of Craigdarroch Castle will be held Saturday, Dec. 10, at 3:30 p.m. at "The Priory," 729 Pemberton Road, the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. Lloyd Morgan.

Election of officers will be held.

Members of Victoria Model Airplane Club will visit Duncan on Sunday to put on a display of model flying at the high school there. It is hoped the display, which starts at 2 p.m., will arouse enough interest to form a model airplane club in Duncan.

Pacific Zone of the Model Aeronautics of Canada held its annual meeting here in Victoria last weekend and local enthusiast Doug Collis was elected zone director for his seventh term.

Discounting an "absurd" man's claim he could drink 10 or 12 bottles of beer without affecting his ability to drive, Magistrate William Ostler today fined the motorist $250 for impaired driving Nov. 6.

Frederick Haun, 2506 Prior, had pleaded not guilty to the charge, laid after a police car followed his car several blocks when the officer noted it weaving.

As part of his defence Haun said he could drink "10 bottles for sure" in a period of three hours and still drive properly.

Ald. A. I. Curtis today was to ask city council to seek a new formula that would be easier on the city in sharing costs for School District 61 (Greater Victoria).

PM INSISTS ON CONTROL OF NUCLEAR ARMS

ANATOMY OF NORTH ATLANTIC

Germany: Exclusive Interview

(Bruce Hutchison, Editor of the Times, returned last weekend from a six-week fact-finding visit to the United Kingdom and Europe. Today he begins a series of articles on the effect that trade and economic policies now in the making there will have on Canada.)

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

In a remarkably candid statement to this newspaper at Bonn, Dr. Ludwig Erhard, vice-chancellor and minister for economic affairs of the German Federal Republic, announced a series of high policies vitally affecting the whole clouded future of Canada. (Full text on Page 4).

The economic genius who made a ruined West Germany the most prosperous nation of the free world declared first, that the principles of the thriving European Common Market should be extended, by stages to include Canada and the United States in a broad Atlantic trading community.

Second, bluntly entering the debate which has strained relations between the British and Canadian governments, Dr. Erhard argued that Britain's entry into the Common Market of Europe was an "absolute necessity," though Canada officially regards it with grave alarm. The union of Britain and the Common Market, Dr. Erhard said, should be the stepping stone toward a wider economic association embracing North America.

Third, to encourage Britain's membership in the Common Market, Dr. Erhard offered on Germany's part a completely new deal which should go a long way toward removing Canada's fears, as recently expressed by Finance Minister Donald Fleming.

Germany, Dr. Erhard said, would not expect Britain to abandon the Imperial Preference system if it joined the

At Odds Over Policy With France

This announcement removed, so far as Germany is concerned, one of the chief objections to Britain's membership in the Common Market. But of course Dr. Erhard can speak for Germany alone and not for France. Up to now the government of General de Gaulle, obsessed by its vision of French power, has insisted that if Britain joins the Common Market it must surrender the entire Preference system and accept the common, relatively high external tariff of the European partners. The schism of policy between Germany and France on this issue—and there are other disputes as well—is clear in Dr. Erhard's statement.

Fourth, Dr. Erhard's government is itself embarrassed by Germany's huge surpluses in foreign trade and its excesssive accumulation of gold reserves that have dangerously distorted the Free World economy.

To cure this particular aspect of a general distortion Dr. Erhard promised that Germany would soon begin a large export of capital to under-developed countries overseas. (Such promises have been made vaguely by the German government in the past, but, as a highly-placed British statesman remarked to this reporter in London, "nothing ever happens.") The actual results of Dr. Erhard's specific pledge will be anxiously awaited throughout the world.

Fifth, Dr. Erhard discounted as impractical the concept of a new political confederation in Europe growing out of the Common Market. He predicted

'U.K. MAKING MORE JOBS FOR CANADA'

SARNIA, Ont. (CP) — The United Kingdom, by importing more manufactured goods from Canada, appears to be providing more jobs for Canadians than Canada is providing for Great Britain, Sarnia Chamber of Commerce was told Wednesday night.

J. E. W. Wilby, principal trade commissioner for the U.K. in Canada, told the chamber that Canadian exports to Britain for the first nine months this year totalled $571,000,000, up more than 20 per cent from 1959.

If present forecasts come true, he said, Canada will sell twice as much to Britain this year as she will buy from Britain.

Congolese Block UN Vehicles

LEOPOLDVILLE (CP) — Angry Congolese troops erected roadblocks and seized between 50 and 60 United Nations vehicles today as tension in this Congo capital mounted toward the explosion point.

All UN forces were on the alert, Canadian signalmen and other UN troops were under orders to shoot to kill if attacked by unruly Congolese. UN soldiers dug in around the residences of senior UN officials.

They feared reprisals for Monday night's battle in which several Congolese soldiers were killed, including Lt.-Col. Joseph Kokolo.

The Congolese roamed the streets and set up roadblocks in a residential area where many UN personnel have houses. UN staff were advised to spend the night in the city.

MALAYS ON GUARD

The 150 Canadians stationed here were ordered to remain in their school quarters. They doubled the guard around the school and were reinforced by a platoon of tough Malaysian jungle fighters.

The school buildings were described by Col. Paul Smith of Edmonton and Vancouver, the signal unit commander, as "easy to defend and difficult to take."

Orders to shoot to kill are to take effect only if Congolese soldiers attack the school and only when given by an officer.

Col. Smith said there is a possibility the defence setup may have to be maintained for a week. A company of Tunisians may later be brought in to defend the perimeter of the school grounds.

Canadians are allowed to leave the school only for shift changes at the UN headquarters message centre, located a half mile away.

Canadians continue to wear side arms at all times, with officers and NCOs equipped with automatic pistols and other ranks with sub-machine guns. From the time they arrived here in August until

GREY CUP FEVER MOUNTS AT VANCOUVER

Soggy Field, Cloudy Skies Promised for Grid Battle

VANCOUVER (CP)—Heavy rain continued to hamper Ottawa Rough Riders today as they prepared for Saturday's Grey Cup Football final against Edmonton Eskimos.

Coach Frank Clair and the Rough Riders arrived here Tuesday but have been unable to hold an outdoor practice of any length due to an almost steady rain.

It was raining again today and it was expected the Rough Riders would be forced to practice at the University of British Columbia's memorial gymnasium.

The rain was presenting a problem to Empire Stadium manager Dave Dauphinee. "We expected the field to be soft but well-conditioned. However, with all this rain it's hard to say how the field will be Saturday," said a worried Dauphinee.

A canvas tarpaulin has been protecting the stadium turf since Tuesday and, if the rain persists, will not be removed until game time at 1:30 Saturday.

Meanwhile, excitement continued to mount in the city as scores of out-of-town fans arrived by plane and train.

Major portion of the visitors will arrive here Friday with 13 extra plane flights and six extra trains reaching Vancouver.

The game interest was noticeable at 6 a.m. today when fans started lining up for 1,300 Grey Cup tickets.

A long-range weather forecast for Saturday predicts skies will be overcast and temperatures in the high forties.

'No Decision While Talks On'

(Times News Services)

OTTAWA — Prime Minister Diefenbaker said today Canada will not consider arming with nuclear weapons until it has joint control of the warheads with the United States.

He also said Canada will make no decision on arming with nuclear weapons as long as disarmament talks proceeded.

"We know of no greater and trying question than that of nuclear weapons," he told a Canadian Club luncheon.

Canada is installing two Bomarc B squadrons, one at North Bay, Ont., and the other near La Macaza, Que., expected to go into operation late next year. Nuclear warheads would be required for maximum effectiveness of the anti-aircraft missiles.

"We shall not, whatever the situation, consider nuclear weapons until such time as we have an equality and joint control of them," he said.

CHANGES NEEDED
Such joint control would require changes in U.S. legislation as the nuclear warheads would come from the United States.

Diefenbaker also called for an early heads-of-state meeting of the 15-member North Atlantic Treaty Organization. He said economic arrangements needed to be made within the body to see that some members were not weakened by the actions of others.

Dag Invites Pearson To UN Talk

Also called in by Mr. Hammarskjöld for consultations were Prince Wan Waihayakon of Thailand, president of the UN's 11th session, and Dr. Victor Belaunde of Peru, who presided at the 14th session.

Mr. Pearson's office said the assignment will require that he spend two or three weekends and part of the Christmas holidays in New York.

'Things Are Very Black...'

NEW YORK (AP)—Neatly dressed and hand in hand, the little boy and girl were found roaming Wednesday through the toy department of Gimbel's department store.

"Hello there," said store security officer Michael Browne, "where are your mommy and daddy?"

The boy spoke up, smiling:

"My name is Michael and I'm five. I'm taking care of my sister. She is Maria and she is four. We are looking for Yogi Bear. Mommy said we could."

Browne broadcast a description of the children via the loudspeaker system. No parent showed up.

Finally, in the boy's pocket, Browne found this note:

"These are my children, to the city children's home."

Michael and Maria. They are Catholics. They have had their shots and vaccinations. I love them dearly but I have no money, no food, and no place to go. Please be kind to them. I hope I can come and claim them some day, soon. Things are very black for me. Thank you for your help."

The youngsters were taken to the city children's home.

Uranium Industry Expands Research

TORONTO (CP)—A $1,250,000 research program aimed at reviving Canada's sagging uranium industry was announced today.

The program—bankrolled by six major uranium companies—will be headed by Frank Forward, University of British Columbia metallurgist who developed the ammonia leach process for recovery of nickel. "This is a united effort by the mines to keep our industry alive," said Gilbert LaBine, founder of Gunnar Mines.

Canada's uranium industry is facing the prospect of complete collapse by 1965 because of world over-production and the end of United States contracts.

Mr. LaBine said six mines have organized to set up the Canadian Uranium Research Foundation to finance the program.

Such a co-operative move, he said, is a "first" in the country's mining industry. Mines involved are Gunnar, Rio Algom, Dennison, Faraday, Bicroft and the government-owned Eldorado.

The foundation will spend $250,000 a year. Mr. LaBine said, with $1,250,000 already pledged by the mines.

PLANNING NOW FOR SANTA'S 1961 VISIT

DUNCAN — Merchants here who feel they missed a good shopping promotion by not having Santa Claus arrive on the scene in person this year will make sure the jolly man with the whiskers visits Duncan in 1961.

Retail merchants' division of the Chamber of Commerce agreed Wednesday that all stores should get together next year to bring Santa to town.

Noting that Nanaimo had brought him in by seaplane this year, chamber president Dave Williams suggested he should be escorted to Duncan next year on a logging truck "to tie in with our local industry."

Comox Technician Gets Job In Congo

COMOX (CP) — Tom Welsh, a telecommunications maintenance superintendent at the RCAF station here, retires from the service this week to help build airport installations in the Congo.

The 51-year-old RCAF member will leave within the next two weeks for his new job, obtained through a group representing the United Nations.

Welsh, the father of two children, says he does not know where he will be working in the Congo for the United Nations. He will not take his family along.

Inquest Set Tonight In Fireman's Death

DUNCAN — Inquest into the electrocution death of volunteer fireman Alan Campbell, 23, will be held here tonight at 7.30 in First Funeral Chapel.

He was electrocuted about 6.45 p.m. Wednesday when he and three helpers leaned an aluminium ladder against a 6,000-volt power line in an effort to put out a routine chimney fire in a Chinatown apartment block.

Robert Lewis, a fellow fireman, was in hospital today suffering slight burns. His condition was not serious, Gordon and Gary Griffiths, received only slight shocks.

MOUTH-TO-MOUTH

Duncan doctors worked more than two hours in an attempt to revive Campbell. It was at first thought he had been killed instantly but there were signs of life after 20 minutes of mouth-to-mouth respiration.

Witnesses said the electricity appeared to jump several feet to the ladder as it was being raised to the roof of the two-storey block.

Firemen said Campbell was

SWIFTSURE CHALLENGER IN EMBRYO

The annual Swiftsure Yacht Racing Classic, long dominated by Seattle and Vancouver speedsters, is likely to get a real challenge in 1961 from two all-Victoria boats now building at Canoe Cove Marina, near Sidney.

The 30-foot racing cruisers have been commissioned by Max Young and Dr. R. H. 'Bud' Trythall, both of Royal Victoria Yacht Club. The mahogany-hulled yachts are each eight foot, four inches in beam, draw five feet four inches, displace 6,150 pounds, will be yawl rigged with aluminum mast, stainless steel rigging and fittings, and will compete as a "B" Class boat with a 25.8 rating.

One distinctive feature of the class is the ocean racers will be trim tabs which operate almost like a second rudder, to improve sailing conditions going to windward.

Target date for delivery of the two yaws — at $13,800 each — is mid-March, in time for tune-ups and trials before the Swiftsure in May.

WOUNDED SURVIVOR

Congo Version Of Shooting

By MICHAEL GOLDSMITH

LEOPOLDVILLE (AP) — A Congolese survivor of Monday's battle at the Ghana Embassy said today his legs were shattered by repeated bursts of UN machine-gun fire while he lay on the ground holding his dying comrade.

The commander, Lt. Col. Joseph Kokolo, was killed while demanding to speak to Ghana charge d'affaires Nathaniel Welbeck, who left the Congo after the battle. UN Tunisian troops and riot police from Ghana guarded the embassy.

Congolese immigration officer Henri Ngambo, an armed soldier, Pte. Andre Lantrola, accompanied Kokolo on his ill-fated attempt to enter the residence. About 300 Congolese troops, supported by armored cars and heavy machine-guns, were waiting in the darkness for Kokolo and his escort to return.

"As we came up to the door we were met by a Tunisian lieutenant," Ngambo told reporters from his hospital bed. "He said the colonel could come in as he was unarmed, but Lantrola and I would have to wait outside. Kokolo insisted on bringing in his escort, and there was an argument."

"Suddenly I heard the lieutenant scream out an order three times. A volley of machine-gun fire hit the colonel across the chest and he fell moaning to the ground."

"I lay down and put his head on my arm. Blood was pouring from his mouth. I heard him say: 'I am dying. Call our soldiers. Tell them they killed me. Tell them to attack.' He was groaning and I knew he would soon be dead."

"Then I saw a Ghanaian policeman aiming at us from the door. I heard machine-gun fire and felt a terrible pain in my legs. I felt another volley strike the colonel's body lying on top of me. My legs were hit by four more bursts. Then they stopped firing. They must have thought we were both dead."

"Lantrola was a little way behind us. Both his arms were hit while his rifle was still slung over his shoulder. He never had a chance to fire back."

"Then everybody started shooting from both sides. Lantrola and I crawled through the darkness into a kind of cellar where we hid for the rest of the night."

"When dawn broke, some Ghanaians found us and started shooting at the wall just above our heads. I offered them all the money I had if they would not kill me. I asked for some water and one of them brought me some, but the other ordered him not to give it to me."

"Then an ambulance came and took us away."

The official Tunisian account of the shooting claimed that Ngambo shouted the first order to fire, "resulting in several volleys from the Congolese side" which wounded two Tunisian officers. Only then did the UN Tunisian and Ghanaian troops return the fire, the official report said.

Ngambo spoke with difficulty. He is suffering from shock and had been given pain-killing drugs.

He said doctors extracted 24 bullets from his legs.

"I'll never be able to use my legs again," he said with tears in his eyes. "What have I done to deserve this?"

"I lay down and put his head on my arm. Blood was pouring from his mouth. I heard him say: 'I am dying. Call our soldiers. Tell them they killed me. Tell them to attack.' He was groaning and I knew he would soon be dead."

"Then I saw a Ghanaian policeman aiming at us from the door. I heard machine-gun fire and felt a terrible pain in my legs. I felt another volley strike the colonel's body lying on top of me. My legs were hit by four more bursts. Then they stopped firing. They must have thought we were both dead."
